

List of Contributors

Martin Albrecht-Hohmaier is a Research Associate at the University of Greifswald. He was awarded scholarships at the Graduiertenkolleg Textkritik als Grundlage und Methode historischer Wissenschaften and at the Wissenschaftliche Nachwuchsförderung (NaFöG). He wrote his PhD in musicology (summa cum laude) on Mendelssohns Paulus – philologisch-analytische Studien. From 2001 to 2005 he held positions at editing companies, the Hans-Sommer-Archiv and Berliner Philharmoniker Foundation. From 2005 to 2013 he was Research Associate at the Research Center of the Arnold Schönberg Gesamtausgabe at the Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of Sciences. From 2013 to 2016 he was Principal Investigator in the international HERA project MusMig. Music Migrations in the Early Modern Age: The Meeting of the European East, West and South and at the same time Research Associate in the project A Cosmopolitan Composer in Pre-Revolutionary Europe – Giuseppe Sarti at the University of Arts in Berlin. Since 2018 he is leading two digital musical editions as a member of the German research group in the Polish-German project PASTICCIO. Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas funded by the Polish and German research councils (NCN and DFG). His main interests are editions, philological research, digital humanities and working as a freelancer organizing cultural travels. Contact: martin.albrecht-hohmaier@web.de.

Anna Laura Bellina studied piano, organ and harpsichord in the Venetian Conservatory “Benedetto Marcello”. She received a Master’s degree at Padua University with a dissertation on Strutture del libretto d’opera comica nella seconda metà del Settecento. She was a Full Professor of Musicology at Padua University until 2018 and studies Italian opera with a particular focus on Venetian dramma per musica in the 17th and 18th centuries. She has published numerous studies on Italian opera in addition to, amongst others, a complete edition of Metastasio’s opera librettos. Since 1998 she coordinates a team that applies techniques of informatics to the study and critical edition of Italian opera (www.progettometastasio.it, www.carlogoldoni.it, www.librettodopera.it, www.variantiallopera.it, www.apostolozeno.it). Contact: annalaura.bellina@unipd.it.

Alessandro Bertinetto is Professor of Theoretical Philosophy at the University of Turin. After completing his PhD on the philosophy of J.G. Fichte at the University of Padua, he worked as Researcher in Aesthetics at the University of Udine and has been Alexander von Humboldt Fellow at the Free University Berlin. He has been Visiting Professor at the universities of Madrid Complutense, Murcia, Toulouse, Luxembourg, Valencia, Padua, Belo Horizonte, Kanazawa and Tsukuba. He served as member of the Executive Committee of the European Society for Aesthetics. His research interests include philosophy of art, philosophy of music, theory of image, analytic and continental aesthetics, hermeneutics, and German idealism. His current projects focus on the aesthetics of improvisation. Contact: alessandro.bertinetto@unito.it.

Thomas Betzwieser is Professor in Historical Musicology at Goethe University Frankfurt am Main. After having been Assistant Professor at Free University Berlin he joined the University of Southampton as Lecturer in music. From 2001-2012 he was Professor at Bayreuth University. His research interests lie in European opera, especially 18th-century French opera. Since 2009 he heads the project OPERA – Spektrum des europäischen Musiktheaters in Einzeldition (Academy of Sciences and Literature, Mainz). Contact: betzwieser@em.uni-frankfurt.de.

Diana Blichmann is a Researcher in the scientific project PerformArt. Promoting, Patronising and Practising the Arts in Roman Aristocratic Families (1644-1740). The Contribution of Roman Family Archives to the History of Performing Arts funded by the European Research Council. She wrote her PhD on the drammi per musica written by Pietro Metastasio and performed in Rome and Venice between 1725 and 1730. She was employed at several music Conservatories in Italy. Her studies are primarily focused on the cultural history of music and musical transfers. Her main research interests are on dramaturgy, multimodality and philology of Italian opera in the 17th and 18th centuries. Contact: dianablichmann@yahoo.de.

Daniel Brandenburg is Research Associate at the University of Frankfurt am Main. He held a postgraduate research fellowship at the Music Department of the German Historical Institute in Rome, was member of the editorial staff of the New Mozart Edition in Salzburg and Research Associate at the Forschungsinstitut für Musiktheater (University of Bayreuth) in Thurnau. As Lecturer and Visiting Professor he has taught at universities in Italy, Austria and Germany. His main research interests include the history of 18th- and 19th-century opera, especially its institutional and performance dimensions, such as stagings, singers, vocal practice and companies. His recently concluded research project Italian Operisti as Cultural Network comprises a forthcoming edition of the correspondence of Franz and Marianne Pirker. He is editor of Christoph Willibald Gluck's correspondence on behalf of the Gluck-Gesamtausgabe. Contact: canto.verdiano@t-online.de.

Frédéric Döhl (*1978) is a musicologist and lawyer and currently holds positions as Referee for Digital Humanities to the board of directors at the German National Library in Leipzig and as Privatdozent at the Institute for Theater Studies at Free University Berlin. His main research focuses are adaptation and borrowing, music journalism, genre history and theory, copyright law and digital humanities. Contact: f.doehl@dnb.de.

Carola Finkel is Research Associate at the Frankfurt University of Music and Performing Arts. She wrote her PhD thesis on the symphonies of the Swedish composer Kurt Atterberg and is currently working for the DFG-funded project Catalogue of the Works and Sources of Giovanni Pierluigi da Palestrina. The main focus of her research is dance and court culture in the 17th and 18th centuries and music in the Nordic countries. She is also an active baroque dancer. Contact: carolafinkel@gmx.de.

Tanja Gölz is responsible for the coordination of the musicological editions in the Academies Programme at the Academy of Sciences and Literature in Mainz and together with Klaus Pietschmann head of the project Gluck-Gesamtausgabe. From 1994 to 2020 she worked there as a Research Fellow and in this context has edited Gluck's Le nozze d'Ercole e d'Ebe (Dresden, 1747), Demofonte (Milan, 1743), and various opera seria fragments, which also form the main focus of her research interests. She has served on the editorial board of the Gluck-Gesamtausgabe since 2010. Contact: Tanja.Goelz@adwmainz.de.

Tina Hartmann is Professor of German Literature at the University of Bayreuth. She wrote her PhD on Goethes Musiktheater (2003/published 2004) and her habilitation on librettology focusing on Alceste operas from the baroque period to Christoph Martin Wieland (2009/published 2017). She is editor-in-chief for librettos and music essays of the historical-critical Edition of the Works of Christoph Martin Wieland. Amongst her past and present research publication topics are librettology, 18th-century German literature, period performance, gender and diversity, human animal studies, German literature by multilingual authors, castratos in literature and the topic of Amazons. She also wrote several opera librettos. Contact: tina.hartmann@uni-bayreuth.de.

Kristin Herold completed her studies in musicology with minor subjects in philosophy and economics at the Technical University of Berlin. From 2011 to 2016 she was Research Associate in the European subproject Digital Research Infrastructure for the Arts and Humanities (DARIAH-DE) at the Musikwissenschaftliches Seminar Detmold/Paderborn, in 2012 she was freelancer at the digital Carl Maria von Weber-Gesamtausgabe and in 2016 Research Associate in the project Entwicklung eines MEI- und TEI-basierten Modells kontextueller Tiefenerschließung von Musikalienbeständen am Beispiel des Detmolder Hoftheaters im 19. Jahrhundert (1825-1875). From 2013 to 2016 she was Research Associate in the project A Cosmopolitan Composer in Pre-Revolutionary Europe – Giuseppe Sarti at the University of the Arts in Berlin, and from 2016 to 2018 Research Associate at the Bernd Alois Zimmermann-Gesamtausgabe at the Berlin-Brandenburg Academy of Sciences. Since 2018 she has been Research Associate at the Department of Musicology of the University of Detmold/Paderborn in the projects

Beethovens Werkstatt and PASTICCIO. Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas. Contact: kristin.herold@uni-paderborn.de.

Bernhard Jahn is Professor of Late Medieval and Early Modern German Literature at the University of Hamburg. He studied German Literature and Musicology at the Ludwig-Maximilians University Munich. Habilitation in 2002 at the Otto-von-Guericke University Magdeburg. Main research areas in the field of early modern theater with a special interest in music theater. DFG research projects on Johann Mattheson, the Hamburger Stadttheater (Hamburg City Theater) 1770-1850, and interconfessionality in the early modern period. Contact: bernhard.jahn@uni-hamburg.de.

Kordula Knaus is Professor of Musicology at the University of Bayreuth (Germany) and currently Principal Investigator of the DFG-funded project Opera buffa as a European Phenomenon. She has published monographs on Alban Berg's Lulu and cross-gender casting in baroque opera, and co-edited volumes on music, gender and intersectionality as well as an introductory handbook for students of musicology. She is editor of the volume Schriften II of the Alban Berg-Gesamtausgabe. Her research interests include 18th-century opera buffa, opera around 1900, performance aesthetics, music and literature, and gender studies. Contact: kordula.knaus@uni-bayreuth.de.

Metoda Kokole is Research Advisor and since 2005 Head of the Institute of Musicology at the Research Center of the Slovenian Academy of Sciences and Arts. She is general editor of the music series Monumenta artis musicae Sloveniae and of the online series of Slovenian Music Heritage (Slovenska glasbena dediščina). From 2013 to 2016 she was Principal Investigator of the Slovenian partner group of the HERA MusMig project (Music Migrations in the Early Modern Age: The Meeting of the European East, West and South) and she is presently the leader of the Slovenian national research program Researches in the History of Music in Slovenia. Her research focuses on the history of music in the territory of today's Slovenia from the 16th to the 18th centuries. She is especially interested in the migration of the 18th-century Italian operatic repertoire. Contact: metoda.kokole@zrc-sazu.si.

Hans Körner studied in Würzburg, Salzburg and Munich. He was Visiting Professor at the universities in Bochum, Braunschweig, Essen, Marburg, Munich, Paris and Taipei. From 1992 to 2017 he worked as Professor (Chair of History of Art) at the Heinrich-Heine University Düsseldorf. Main fields of research: tomb sculpture in medieval art, graphic arts (late Gothic period), painting of the Italian Renaissance, French painting, sculpture and art literature (17th to 20th century), the sense of touch in the history of art, the history of ornament, outsider art, modern sacred art. Contact: koerner@hhu.de.

Maik Köster studied Musicology and Public Law at the University of Mainz and is currently in the process of finishing his graduate studies in musicology at the University of Cologne. His studies were supported by a scholarship from the Studienstiftung des deutschen Volkes. His main research interests include music and copyright, the sociology of music as well as the perception of musical form and tonality. In 2018 he was part of the DFG/NCN research group PASTICCIO. Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas. His own project about copyright and musical ownership in 18th-century London subsequently became the basis of his graduate thesis. Contact: maikkoester@hotmail.de.

Ursula Kramer is Professor of Musicology at the University of Mainz since 2007. After her studies of both musicology and music she completed a doctorate in 1992 with a dissertation on the function of the orchestra in 19th-century opera. For some years she worked as a music dramaturg at the State Theater in Mainz. From 2004 to 2007 she was interim director of the Department of Musicology in Göttingen. She is now President of the Christoph-Graupner-Gesellschaft in Darmstadt. Her main research fields are music at the court of Hesse Darmstadt under Christoph Graupner (latest publication: Landgraf Ernst Ludwig von Hessen-Darmstadt (1667-1739). Regentschaft und musikalisch-künstlerische Ambition im 18. Jahrhundert, Mainz 2019), incidental music (ed. Theater mit Musik: 400 Jahre Schauspielmusik im europäischen Theater. Bedingungen – Strategien – Wahrnehmungen, Bielefeld 2014) and music for wind instruments (ed. Lexikon der Holzblasinstrumente, Laaber 2018). Contact: kramer@uni-mainz.de.

Annette Landgraf is a member of the editorial office of the Hallische Händel-Ausgabe. She has edited Israel in Egypt, the Anthem for the Funeral of Queen Caroline and is currently working on the edition of Esther, HWV 50^b. Annette Landgraf has edited The Cambridge Handel Encyclopedia with David Vickers for Cambridge University Press in 2009. She has also published a monograph on the reception history of Handel's oratorio Israel in Egypt, and contributed articles and essays on Handel to several publications. In addition, she is secretary of the Internationale Georg-Friedrich-Händel-Gesellschaft and editor of the Händel-Jahrbuch. Contact: landgraf@musik.uni-halle.de.

Carlo Lanfossi is currently Postdoctoral Fellow at the University of Milan. He earned a PhD in Musicology from the University of Pennsylvania. His research focuses on baroque opera, specifically on issues of materiality, authorship, and listening practices, at the intersection of performance and material studies. His dissertation on Handel's pasticcios was supported by grants from the American Musicological Society, the Handel Institute, and the American Handel Society. An article on ghosting and hauntology in baroque opera was recently published in the Journal of Musicology, while his Italian translation of Mladen Dolar's and Slavoj Žižek's Opera's Second Death was published by Ricordi in 2019. Contact: carlo.lanfossi@unimi.it.

Alina Mądry, musicologist, is an Associate Professor at the Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań (Posen). As the head of the Scientific and Editorial Board of the Complete Works of Henryk Wieniawski, member of the Research and Editorial Team of the Musical Sources in Jasna Góra and associate of the Archdiocesan Archive in Poznań, she prepares and compiles musical sources. From 2012 to 2016 she worked as a curator at the Museum of Musical Instruments in Poznań, a branch of the National Museum. She is the author of two books, critical editions of sources and numerous scientific and popular scientific articles. She has conducted research grants related to the edition of musical sources. In her activities, both scientific and popularizing, she concentrates primarily on issues related to Polish and European music from the end of the 17th century to the first half of the 19th century. She is researching and editing the unknown sources of Polish Music. Contact: alina.madry@amu.edu.pl.

Aneta Markuszewska is an Assistant Professor at the Division of the General History of Music of the Institute of Musicology, the University of Warsaw. In 2011 she defended her PhD dissertation on Festa i muzyka na dworze Marii Kazimierzy Sobieskiej w Rzymie (1699-1714). In the years 2012-2014 she was a member of European project – ENBACH (European Network of Baroque Culture and Heritage) which received a very high final evaluation, and in the years 2013-2016 she was a member of the HERA MusMig project (Music Migrations in the Early Modern Age: The Meeting of the European East, West and South). Since 2018 she is Principal Investigator of the Polish group in the Polish-German project entitled PASTICCIO. Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas financed by NCN and DFG. Her main research interests include: 17th- and 18th-century opera, women composers and the keyboard music of the same period. Contact: amarkuszewska@uw.edu.pl.

Panja Mücke is Professor of Musicology at Mannheim University of Music and Performing Arts since 2015 and worked previously at the Universities of Münster, Marburg and Bonn. In 2008 she completed her habilitation on media changes in Kurt Weill's works after obtaining her PhD on Dresden court culture in 2008. She occupies herself with court culture, composition history in the 18th century, incidental music, music theater and film music in the 20th century as well as music history and performance practice in the 20th century. Contact: muecke@muho-mannheim.de.

Gesa zur Nieden is a Professor of Musicology at the University of Greifswald and a Deputy Professor at the Hanover University of Music, Drama and Media. After completing her German and French doctoral studies on the Théâtre du Châtelet in Paris, she worked as a research fellow at the German Historical Institute in Rome and as a Junior Professor at the University of Mainz. She was the German director of the ANR/DFG project MUSICI. European Musicians in Venice, Rome and Naples (1650-1750) from 2010 to 2013, and has been a leader of the HERA project MusMig. Music Migrations in the Early Modern Age: The Meeting of the European East, West and South since the middle of 2013. Currently she directs the DFG/NCN project PASTICCIO. Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas in cooperation with Aneta Markuszewska from the University of Warsaw. The main focus of her research is on the cultural history of music and on the sociology of music, especially in relation to music and mobility in early modern Europe, and on ethnographical research into the contemporary reception of Richard Wagner and his music. Contact: gesa.zurnieden@uni-greifswald.de.

Berthold Over is a Research Associate at the University of Greifswald. He wrote his PhD on music at the Venetian ospedali in the 18th century and became a Research Associate at the University of Mainz in 2009. From 2010 until 2013 he worked in the research project The Cantata as an Aristocratic Medium of Expression in Rome During Handel's Time (c. 1695-1715) funded by the Fritz Thyssen Foundation and from 2013 until 2016 in the international HERA project MusMig. Music Migrations in the Early Modern Age: The Meeting of the European East, West and South. Since 2018 he is a member of the German research group in the Polish-German project PASTICCIO. Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas funded by the Polish and German research councils (NCN and DFG). His main research interests lie in the cultural history of music in a European context. In addition, he concerns himself with the economic background of music, especially with regard to the Munich court. He has discovered unknown autographs by Antonio Vivaldi, George Frideric Handel and Gustav Mahler. Contact: berthold.over@uni-greifswald.de.

Emilia Pelliccia is a PhD candidate at the University of Vienna's Department of Musicology. She studied Musicology in Vienna and Cremona and completed her Master's degree with a thesis on the tenor Francesco Borosini (c. 1690-1755) in 2017. Since then, Emilia Pelliccia's research has mainly focused on singers of Italian baroque opera in the early 18th century. Her current dissertation project investigates the role of low male voices at the Viennese court opera from 1700 through 1740 and is funded by the University of Vienna's scholarship program uni:docs for outstanding doctoral students. Moreover, Emilia Pelliccia collaborates with the research project PASTICCIO. Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas by the Universities of Greifswald and Warsaw. In addition, she has repeatedly worked as a translator of Italian librettos for the Innsbruck Festival of Early Music. Contact: emilia.pelliccia@univie.ac.at.

Daniela Philippi holds the position of Akademie-Professur at the Institute of Musicology at Goethe University Frankfurt am Main (since April 2011). In winter 2009/10 and summer 2010 she was a Substitute Professor at this institute. 2006-2010 research fellow at the New Dvořák Edition (NDE) of the Academy of Sciences of the Czech Republic, Prague, and has also held lectureships in Düsseldorf (University of Music) and Heidelberg (University). From 2006 to 2011 she was Associate Professor at the Johannes Gutenberg University Mainz and from 1993 Research Assistant in the project Gluck-Gesamtausgabe at the Academy of Sciences and Literature, Mainz. Her monographs include Antonín Dvořák – "Die Geisterbraut / Svatební košile" op. 69 und "Die heilige Ludmilla / Svatá Lumila" op. 71. Studien zur großen Vokalform im 19. Jahrhundert, Tutzing 1993; Neue Orgelmusik. Werke und Kompositionstechniken von der Avantgarde bis zur pluralistischen Moderne, Kassel 2002; and musicological editions as part of the Gluck-Gesamtausgabe, the most recent of which is Cythère assiégée (Sämtliche Werke IV,9), Kassel et al. 2019. Contact: philippi@em.uni-frankfurt.de.

Klaus Pietschmann is Professor of Musicology at the Johannes Gutenberg-University of Mainz. His principal research interests are the social, institutional, and theological aspects of sacred music in late-medieval and early modern Italy and Germany, in particular the papal chapel in the 16th century; iconography; and 18th- and 19th-century Viennese opera. Publications include Kirchenmusik zwischen Tradition und Reform: Die päpstliche Kapelle im Pontifikat Pauls III (Vatican City 2007); Musikalische Performanz und päpstliche Repräsentation in der Renaissance (ed., Kassel 2014); and Der Kanon in der Musik. Ein Handbuch (ed. with Melanie Wald-Fuhrmann, Munich 2013). Contact: klaus.pietschmann@uni-mainz.de.

Angela Romagnoli is an Associate Professor at the University of Pavia, Dipartimento di Musicologia e Beni Culturali (Cremona), where she teaches Musical Dramaturgy, History of Performance Practice and History of Dance and Dance Music. She wrote her PhD on prison scenes in the Italian opera between 1690 and 1724. Her research interests lie in vocal music, opera and dance of the 17th and 18th centuries, with a focus on the Italian musicians at the court of Vienna. She is artistic director of the festival Settenovecento in Rovereto (Italy) and board member of the European Mozart Ways. Contact: angela.romagnoli@unipv.it.

Anna Ryszka-Komarnicka is an Assistant Professor at the Division of the General History of Music of the Institute of Musicology, the University of Warsaw. Thanks to a grant from the Polish Committee for Scientific Research and a scholarship from the Lanckoronski Foundation, she finished her PhD dissertation The Oratorios by Pasquale Anfossi (1727-97). Her studies concentrate on the cultural history of music, especially Polish and Italian, in the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries. In 2011-2013 she received a grant from the National Science Center in Kraków for a research project on The Book of Judith in the Italian Oratorios of the Baroque Era (1621-c. 1750). She published a monograph under the same title in 2017, thereby becoming Doctor Habilitatus in 2019. Since 2018 she is a member of the research group in the Polish-German project PASTICCIO. Ways of Arranging Attractive Operas funded by the Polish and German research councils (NCN and DFG). Contact: a.ryszka-komarnicka@uw.edu.pl.

Jana Spáčilová is an Associate Professor at the Department of Musicology, Faculty of Arts, Palacký University Olomouc (Olmütz). She graduated in musicology at the Charles University, Prague (2001). She subsequently received her PhD degree from the Masaryk University, Brno (2007). At the Masaryk University she has participated in research projects concerning baroque opera in the Czech Lands. Between 2007 and 2014 she has worked as curator for early music in the Department of Music History, Moravian Museum, Brno. Since 2014 she has been working at the Department of Musicology, Palacký University Olomouc. She specializes in baroque music in Central Europe, predominantly Italian opera and oratorio. Contact: jana.spacilova@upol.cz.

Katarzyna Spurgjasz studied History and Musicology in Warsaw, Cracow, Paris and Oxford. She graduated from the University of Warsaw (MA in History, 2012; MA in Musicology, 2015). In subsequent years she participated in several research projects within the National Programme for the Development of the Humanities (NPRH) in the field of early modern studies; in 2018 she also was awarded with two scholarships by the Foundation of Polish Science and National Science Centre of Poland. Recently, she completed her PhD (University of Warsaw, 2020) with a dissertation on Silesian music culture in the time of recatholicization (1654-1707). The main focus of her research is on the cultural history of music, especially in the multi-confessional context of early modern Central Europe. Contact: katarzyna.spurgiasz@uw.edu.pl.

Gianluca Stefani is a Postdoc Researcher at the University of Florence. His PhD thesis was awarded the Premio Ricerca – Città di Firenze 2014 and has been published as Sebastiano Ricci impresario d'opera a Venezia nel primo Settecento by Firenze University Press (2015). He was awarded a scholarship at the Fondazione Giorgio Cini of Venice, undertaking original research on the Italian stage designers and engineers Mauro. He is also the chief editor of the academic journals Drammaturgia and Drammaturgia n.s. The main focus of his research is on Venetian opera theaters in the Baroque Era. Contact: gl.stefani@unifi.it.

Reinhard Strohm studied musicology, violin, Latin and Romance languages in Munich, Pisa, Milan and Berlin; PhD 1971, Technical University Berlin (with Carl Dahlhaus). He collaborated in the critical edition of the works of Richard Wagner (1970-1982). He taught musicology at King's College London (1975-1983 and 1990-1996), Yale University (1983-1990), and Oxford University (1996-2010). Visitorships were held at Columbia University, Chicago, Rome, Tours, Vienna, Berlin, Budapest, Zurich and Hamburg. Strohm's research, published in twelve books and over 200 essays, focuses on European music c. 1400-c. 1800, including the history of opera, musical historiography and the global history of music. His collective research project Towards a Global History of Music (2013-2017), supported by the Balzan Prize 2012 in Musicology received from the International Balzan Foundation "Prize", is in course of publication, with the volumes Studies on a Global History of Music: A Balzan Musicology Project (Routledge, 2018), and The Music Road: Coherence and Diversity in Music from the Mediterranean to India (The British Academy, 2019). His most recent contributions on Italian opera seria include a study of the musical repertory of the Theater am Kärntner Tor, Vienna (1728-1748) for a research project at the Austrian Academy of Sciences under Andrea Sommer-Mathis. Contact: reinhard.strohm@music.ox.ac.uk.

Joachim Veit is Honorary Professor at the University of Paderborn/Institute for Musicology Detmold/Paderborn. He is Chief Editor of the Carl-Maria-von-Weber Complete Edition and together with Bernhard R. Appel head of the project Beethovens Werkstatt, a cooperation between the Beethoven-Haus Bonn and the institute at Detmold/Paderborn. For several years Veit has been involved in a number of digital editions and since 2014 he coordinates the Center Music – Edition – Media (ZenMEM). He is also a board member of the Digital Humanities in the German Speaking Countries (DHd). Contact: jveit@mail.uni-paderborn.de.

Andrea Zedler is working as a postdoctoral Researcher at the University of Bayreuth within the DFG-funded project Opera buffa as a European Phenomenon. She studied musicology at the University of Graz and at the Università di Pavia (Facoltà di Musicologia, Cremona) and also recorder at the Johann Joseph Fux Conservatory (Graz) specializing in early music. In 2017, she completed her PhD with a dissertation on Antonio Caldara's secular cantata repertoire. She has published in the field of early modern travel research, but the main focus of her research is on the cultural history of music. Contact: andrea.zedler@uni-bayreuth.de.

Alina Żórawska-Witkowska is Professor Emerita at the Warsaw University Musicological Institute where she directed the general music history department. Her research focuses on baroque and classical music history (17th-19th centuries), in particular on the musical culture in Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth – especially at the royal court in Warsaw – and on the dissemination of Italian opera. She has undertaken extensive work in many libraries and archives in Poland, Italy, Germany (Sächsisches Hauptstaatsarchiv and Sächsische Landesbibliothek, Staats- und Universitätsbibliothek in Dresden), Belarus (Minsk), Russia (St. Petersburg). In the years 1996-2001 she collaborated with the European Science Foundation in the project Musical Life in Europe 1600-1900. Circulation, Institutions, Representation (group: Italian Opera in Central Europe). In the years 2012-2014 she was a member of the European project ENBACH (European Network of Baroque Culture and Heritage) which received a very high final evaluation and in 2013-2016 she participated, among others, in the HERA project MusMig. Music Migrations in the Early Modern Age: The Meeting of the European East, West and South. Contact: azorwit@wp.pl.

Judit Zsovár is a soprano and musicologist. She earned her doctorate at the Liszt Academy Budapest (2017), published inter alia in the Händel-Jahrbuch, the Dizionario Biografico degli Italiani, and authored the book Anna Maria Strada, Prima Donna of G.F. Handel (Peter Lang, 2020). Another research field of hers is the soprano sfogato voice. She collaborated in the 'Viennese Kärntnertortheater' project (Austrian Academy of Sciences, 2016-2018) as well as assisting Reinhard Strohm with the edition of Scipione for the Hallische Händel-Ausgabe. Judit has been awarded the Handel Institute Research and Conference grants, the Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst (DAAD), Zoltán Kodály and Hungarian state scholarships. As a soprano soloist, she performed at the Vienna Konzerthaus, the Helsinki Music Center, the Nádor and the Liszt halls, and at the Handel House in London. Contact: zsovar.judit@gmail.com.