

About the Authors

Calvin Allen is a freelance editor and researcher, and has been Associate Editor of the SEER Journal since its inception. He has taught in an adult education context right across the region of south-east Europe and is a lifelong believer in the power of collective organisation in the direction of social change, with trade unions at the centre, his most recent employment being for a UK trade union. His research themes have been substantially connected with the negotiations process, particularly as regards pay and pensions. He currently lives in Scotland. e-mail: calvin.m.allen@outlook.com

Ivaylo Dinev is a PhD candidate in Political Science at the Scuola Superiore Sant'Anna (Pisa) and a researcher at the Institute for Social and Trade Union Research within the Confederation of Independent Trade Unions in Bulgaria (CITUB). His research interests include comparative-historical analysis of social movements and trade unions, cleavages and inequality.

Fatima Fazlić is a lawyer in Sarajevo. Formerly, she was the head of the president's office and legal representative of Savez Samostalnih Sindikata Bosne i Hercegovine (the trade union confederation) as well as a member of its negotiating teams for general and branch collective agreements, and an advisor and member of the union's delegation to the Economic and Social Council of the Federation of BiH. Well-versed in international co-operation, she is also a member of the Forum of Trade Union Activists of the Social Democratic Party of BiH.

Lyuboslav Kostov has a PhD in Economics. He is an Assistant Professor at the University of National and World Economy (UNWE), Sofia; and is also Senior Researcher at the Institute for Social and Trade Union Research with the Confederation of Independent Trade Unions of Bulgaria.

Ildiko Otova holds a PhD in Political Science from New Bulgarian University and is a laureate of the Mozer Scholarship for Excellence in the Study of Political Science and Civil Courage. She works as a researcher in various national and international projects on migration and refugee issues, integration, urban policies and citizenship, populism and extremism, and teaches European Migration Policy at the European Studies Department of Sofia University. e-mail: ildiko.otova@gmail.com

Jasmin Mujanović PhD is a political scientist, writer and commentator specialising in the politics of south-eastern Europe and the politics of post-authoritarian and post-conflict democratisation. His first book Hunger and Fury: The Crisis of Democracy in the Balkans is available from Hurst Publishers. He also co-hosts the Sarajevo Calling podcast exploring contemporary western Balkans politics. From Sarajevo, Jasmin now lives in Southern California. e-mail: jmujanovic@gmail.com

Christophe Solioz has, from the early 1990s, been involved in various citizens' initiatives in former Yugoslavia, most notably in the Helsinki Citizens' Assembly. A founder member of the Association Bosnia and Herzegovina 2005 (2003-2005) and, later, of the Center for European Integration Studies (2005-2014), he now lives in Geneva as Professor of Philosophy at the Collège de Genève and is Secretary General of the Multiplex Approach (MAP) Nomad Think Tank. He has written extensively on transition and democratisation as well as on EU integration and regionalism in south-east Europe.