

Contents

1	Introduction: Scotland's democratic nationalism	9
1.1	Scotland's separatist nationalism	11
1.2	Two problems of research related to Scottish nationalism	14
1.3	Thesis on Scotland's democratic nationalism	19
1.4	Outline of the Study	21
2	Motives for and against secession	27
2.1	Motives for secession	29
2.2	Motives against secession	42
2.3	Conclusion	52
3	Political collective
	Scotland's regional nation of presence	55
3.1	Voluntarist and residential demarcation	57
3.2	Voting rights: "the people who live and work here"	60
3.3	Radicalising the regional inclusion and exclusion	69
3.4	Automatic citizenship: Traces of ethnic exclusion	73
3.5	Explaining the political collective	78
3.6	Conclusion	85
4	A national commitment
	"Scottish Conviction"	87
4.1	National value commitment	88
4.2	Political ideology	92
4.3	Conclusion	99
5	National collective
	Anthem as national self-description	103
5.1	Context of origin: Globalisation of sport	106
5.2	Taking the national anthem from the people	112

5.3	The meaning of the anthem	117
5.4	Conclusion: Two collectives	129
6	Coupling the political and national collectives
	Parliament as a national symbol	131
6.1	Planning a national symbol: It takes a team	132
6.2	The nation: designed and engraved	138
6.3	Political tradition by and in action: Scottish politics	146
6.4	Conclusion: Sociocultural evolution of the Scottish Parliament	153
7	Religious unionism and separatism	157
7.1	Clergy – “present the arguments”	158
7.2	Believers of unionism and separatism	168
7.3	Discussion	169
8	Higher education and national universalism	177
8.1	Mechanisms of Scottish universalism	180
8.2	Scottishness and university	185
8.3	Internationalisation and nationalisation	187
9	Political and economic autonomies
	The currency conflict and global trade	189
9.1	Currency union	189
9.2	Anticipating the question of currency	195
9.3	Autonomy by pluralisation of dependencies	198
10	Gaelic in democratic nationalism	201
10.1	Multicultural integration by Gaelic	202
10.2	Celtic revival: From virtue to sentimentality	204
10.3	European multiculturalism	206
10.4	Conclusion	207
11	Conclusion	209
11.1	Summary	209
11.2	Comparing democratic and autocratic nationalism	211
	Bibliography	217
	List of figures	249
	Index	251