

Stephanie Bender
Ethics for the Future

Culture & Theory | Volume 288

Stephanie Bender is engaged in sowing seeds for better futures on several fields: Using the knowledge she has gained throughout her doctorate in English literary and cultural studies she teaches courses at Albert-Ludwigs-Universität Freiburg. She turns theory into practice on the fields of Community Supported Agriculture as the degrowth future of sustainable food production. And finally, she takes care of two small members of a future generation of humankind that will hopefully tread more lightly on earth than their predecessors.
