

Michaela Koch
Discursive Intersections

Practices of Subjectivation | Volume 9

Editorial

Post-structuralism and practice theories have shaken the Cartesian universal notion of the self-reflecting subject to its core. No longer is the subject viewed as the autonomous point of origin for initiative, but rather is analysed in the context of its respective social identity constructed by discourse and produced by social practices. This perspective has proven itself to be of exceptional utility for cultural and social analysis. The analytical value of the ensuing concept of subjectivation is the potential of supplementing related terms such as individualisation, disciplinary power, or habitualization by bringing new aspects of self-making to the fore. In this context, the analyses of the DFG Research Training Group "Self-Making. Practices of Subjectivation in Historical and Interdisciplinary Perspective" aim to contribute to the development of a revised understanding of the subject. They still take the fundamental dimensions of subjectivity such as agency and reflexivity into account, but do not overlook or lose sight of the historicity and sociality of the subject. Thus, the ultimate aim is to reach a deeper understanding of the interplay of doing subject and doing culture in various spaces of (and in) time.

Editors of this series are

Professor Thomas Alkemeyer, Institute of Sport Science at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Sociology and Sport Sociology

Professor Thomas Etzemüller, Institute of History at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Modern and Recent History

Professor Dagmar Freist, Institute of History at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Early Modern History

Professor Gunilla Budde, Institute of History at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: German and European History of the 19th and 20th Century

Professor Rudolf Holbach, Institute of History at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Medieval History

Professor Johann Kreuzer, Institute of Philosophy at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: History of Philosophy

Professor Sabine Kyora, Institute of German Studies at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Modern German Literature

Professor Gesa Lindemann, Institute of Social Sciences at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Sociology

Professor Ulrike Link-Wieczorek, Institute of Protestant Theology at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Systematic Theology and Religious Education

Professor Norbert Ricken, Institute of Educational Science at Ruhr-University Bochum, field of expertise: Theories of Education and Educational Science

Professor Reinhard Schulz, Institute of Philosophy at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Philosophy

Professor Silke Wenk, Cultural Studies Institute at Carl von Ossietzky University Oldenburg, field of expertise: Aesthetics and Art History

Michaela Koch (PhD) teaches Anglophone Literary and Cultural Studies at the University of Oldenburg. Her research interests include queer studies, animal studies, and literary discourse analysis.

MICHAELA KOCH

Discursive Intersexions

Daring Bodies between Myth, Medicine, and Memoir

[transcript]

Originally submitted as a dissertation at the University of Oldenburg, 2016.

Printed with the generous support of the German Research Foundation (DFG).

Bibliographic information published by the Deutsche Nationalbibliothek

The Deutsche Nationalbibliothek lists this publication in the Deutsche Nationalbibliografie; detailed bibliographic data are available in the Internet at <http://dnb.d-nb.de>

© 2017 transcript Verlag, Bielefeld

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reprinted or reproduced or utilized in any form or by any electronic, mechanical, or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publisher.

Cover concept: Kordula Röckenhaus, Bielefeld

Cover illustration: Ronja Korfe

Printed by Majuskel Medienproduktion GmbH, Wetzlar

Print-ISBN 978-3-8376-3705-2

PDF-ISBN 978-3-8394-3705-6