

Acknowledgements

This book is dedicated to all people who do not cease to strive for equality and justice with open hearts and minds, among those especially to my beloved partner, husband and friend Kai Egener and his wonderful, supportive family.

First and foremost, I thank my supervisor Prof. Dr. Susanne Baer and all participants in her colloquium. Their thoughtful insights and comments helped shaping this research. I also thank Dr. Aranka Podhora, Carla MacDougall, Asa Russel, Brenda Pollock, Valentin Emerson and Katrin Behringer who accompanied my research with continued interest and feedback. My very special thanks go to Mary Ann Sutherland, for challenging my German-English expressions and convoluted thoughts.

I wish to thank the Heinrich-Boell-Foundation for supporting my research. Many thanks also go to (though this list surely remains incomplete): Suzanne Cooper, PhD, Sari Tudiver, Prof. Shree Mulay, PhD, Prof. Viviane Namaste, PhD, Prof Dr. Konstanze Plett, Prof. Frank Vanclay, PhD, Ana-Maria Esteves, PhD, Dr. Karolin Heckmeyer, Prof. Dr. Sabine Hark, Dr. Regina Frey, Dr. Sandra Lewalter, Sophie Rosenbusch, Waide Egener and all of the Egener, Chaddah and Huyer families, Helen McColm, Thérèse Lamartine, Alexandra Philoctete, Louise Magnan, Rita Robert, Monica Zanchettin, Isabelle Lamoureux, Dr. Irmgard Frank, Prof. Dr. Karin Hausen, Prof. Dr. Gertraude Krell, Ise Bosch, Christiana Jasper, Kathrina Peddle, PhD, Devon Simpson, Lo and Dago Poggi, Marion Russel, Anson Koch-Rein, PhD, Claudia Weigel, Berno Hellmann, Melanie Bittner, as well as our pets, Moxie, Pixie and Lucky, who always managed to cheer me up during this long, laborious process.

Last but not least, I wish to thank my parents Roswitha and Meinhardt Sauer as well as my brothers Stephan and Heiko Sauer. Special words of gratitude go to my intelligent, hardworking, and powerful grandmothers Lydia Fleischmann and Irene Sauer: your presence is encapsulated in these lines.
