

Contents

Acknowledgments

James Barber, Christian Büschges, Dianne Violeta Mausfeld, and Britta Sweers 9

Preface

*James Barber, Christian Büschges, Dianne Violeta Mausfeld,
and Britta Sweers* 11

Remixing the Hip-Hop Narrative

Introduction

*James Barber, Christian Büschges, Dianne Violeta Mausfeld,
and Britta Sweers* 17

Epistemological Quandary

Why Hip-Hop Scholars Must Ground Their Transcultural Arguments in the Work of Fernando Ortiz

Terence Kumpf 47

Hip Hop Becomes Mainstream

or, How to Commodify Multicultural Listeners

Amy Coddington 77

| | |
|--|-----|
| “Double the Struggle” | |
| Chicano/Latino Hip Hop in The Source Magazine | |
| Dianne Violeta Mausfeld | 105 |
| “Where the Rhymes at?” | |
| How Contemporary Artists are Transforming Notions of Liveness in Hip Hop | |
| Kevin P. Green | 133 |
| YEEK! | |
| Atlanta Hip-Hop Dance and the Subversion | |
| of Expressing “Your Energetic Explosive Klimax” | |
| Kevin C. Holt | 159 |
| Identity Transgressions as Transgressions of the Art Form | |
| The Case of Frank Ocean | |
| Martina Bratić | 185 |
| Afro-Cosmopolitanisms | |
| Discourses on Race and Urban Identities in Brazilian Hip Hop | |
| Eliseo Jacob | 209 |
| “Ich lebe für Hip Hop” | |
| German Hip-Hop Music, Cultural Hybridities, and the “Berlin Moment” | |
| Martin Lüthe | 235 |
| Producing Hip-Hop Culture and Identity | |
| How a Youth Recording Studio Supports Well-Being | |
| Bronwen Low and Édouard Laniel-Tremblay | 259 |
| Chronicling New York Reggae and Hip Hop’s Crossroads, | |
| and Community Media as Historical Archives from the Ground Up | |
| James Barber | 289 |
| Contributors | 323 |