

Acknowledgments

My sincerest thanks go to:

Nicole Haitzinger, for being positive, supportive, present, and engaged beyond what I could have hoped – and for guiding me towards the primacy of primary sources.

Gendup (the University of Salzburg centre for Gender Studies) and the Marie An-dessner Stipendium committee; the NEON foundation (Greece); and the Leventis foundation (Switzerland / Cyprus) for financially supporting different phases of this research. The FWF (Austrian Science Fund) for financially supporting its publication.

Dik Breunis, Mathilde Chénin, Emilia Gasiolek, Diana Lourens, Olga Mesa, Jan Pestoor, Julian Richter, Christopher Roman, Gus Solomons, Jr., Peter Stamer, and André Tervoort for taking the time to answer my questions.

The employees of the Archives of the Ballets Suédois, Dansmuseet (Stockholm, Sweden); the Bibliothèque nationale de France (Paris, France); the Centre national de la danse (Pantin, France); the archive of the Municipality of Groningen (Netherlands); the Laban Archive at the Trinity Laban Conservatoire of Music and Dance (London, United Kingdom); the Rudolf Laban Archive at the University of Surrey (United Kingdom); the Special Collections of Leeds University Library (United Kingdom); the Bibliothèque Kandinsky (Paris, France), and the Derra de Moroda Dance Archive at the University of Salzburg (Austria), for their patience and help.

The anonymous reviewer of this book's manuscript for their comments, and Rebecca Hendershott for bearing with the manuscript (and me).

My students, for their positive energy that counterbalanced difficult moments of writing, and for teaching me how to learn.

My mother, for introducing dance – even though it was not expanded choreography – into my life.

Emma, who made me happy while I was writing this text – and beyond.
