

About the authors

Julejda Aliaj Dr is Associate Professor in the Department of Law, Faculty of Political-Legal Sciences, of the University 'Aleksandër Moisiu', Durrës, Albania. e-mail: julejda@gmail.com

Biljana Chavkoska is a full professor and teaches courses in international business law. Her major areas of expertise are in gender equality, discrimination, the labour market and EU labour law. Over the 20 years of her academic career, she has published several books and articles both domestically and internationally. She is a member of editorial boards, as well as of various conference organising committees, and has participated in international research projects and conferences mostly funded by COST EU (European Cooperation in Science and Technology). e-mail: bcavkoska@yahoo.com.

Ermira Kalaj Dr. is Professor of Public Economics at the University of Shkodra. She received her PhD in economics and management from the University of Trento and her MA in the management of development from the University of Turin. She joined the University of Shkodra in 2015, having previously held faculty positions at the University of Durrës, where she served as Chair of the Economics Department. Her current research interests include public sector economics, the effects of immigration, income distribution and econometric methods for programme and policy evaluation. e-mail: ermira.kalaj@unishk.edu.al.

Lyuboslav Kostov PhD is a chief assistant in the Economics Department of the University of National and World Economy. His main research interests include income inequalities, the living wage, human capital, collective bargaining and trade union policies and Industry 4.0, among others. He is also the chief economist and vice-president of the Confederation of Independent Trade Unions of Bulgaria (KNSB) and Director of the Institute for Social and Trade Union Research, Education and Training. e-mail: lkostov@citub.net.

Fatjona Kroni is a lecturer at the Faculty of Natural Sciences and a PhD candidate at the Faculty of Economics, University of Shkodra. Her main research interests include digital tourism, online platforms and the data-driven analysis of digital transformation processes in the tourism sector. Her recent work focuses on Digital tourism in northern Albania: the role of online platforms in transforming the tourism industry. e-mail: fatjona.kroni@unishk.edu.al

Abela Lame MSc is Coordinator for the Right to Information and a public/media relations specialist in Court of First Instance of Durrës, General Jurisdiction. e-mail: lameabela@gmail.com.

Rositsa Makelova is a researcher for the Institute for Social and Trade Union Research, Education and Training. She has a Master's degree in labour markets and human resource development, with research interests that are concerned predominantly with collective bargaining, minimum wages and labour law. She is a member of the General Assembly of the European Social Observatory and of the ETUC Workers' Participation and Company Policy Committee. She also represents the trade union movement as a member of various national-level government working groups. e-mail: rantova@citub.net.

Sanja Paunović PhD is Economic Counsellor to the Confederation of Autonomous Trade Unions of Serbia. She holds a PhD in economics from Singidunum University, where she defended a thesis focused on the role of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) during the economic crisis. Dr. Paunović is the author of several books and has published over one hundred articles in the fields of economics, labour policy and social protection. She is an active member of the standing Social Protection Committee of the European Trade Union Confederation (ETUC), as well as a member of its Quality Employment and Labour Market Committee. e-mail: psanja@rocket-mail.com.

Maria Prohaska PhD is Director at the Center for Economic Development in Sofia. She has a long and successful career in policy research and advocacy in the socioeconomic field, with her main areas of interest being labour market issues, pension reform, poverty and living standards, and industrial relations. For more than 30 years she has been involved in numerous research projects with the Institute for Social and Trade Union Research, Education and Training, and has also taught courses in social policy and social administration at New Bulgarian University. e-mail: m.prohaska@ced.bg.

Xheni Rusi MSc is lecturer in the Department of Management at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Tiranë. She earned her masters in finance-accounting and, alongside her lectureship, she is also pursuing a career in private sector management. Her research interests lie in human resource management and strategic management, with a specific focus on HR, innovation and corporate governance. e-mail: xheni.rusi@unitir.edu.al.

Bruno S. Sergi is an Instructor at Harvard University. He is also a faculty affiliate at the Harvard Center for International Development, an associate at the Davis Center for Russian and Eurasian Studies and an associate at the Harvard University Asia Center. He is a full professor at the University of Messina and the Academic Series Editor of Cambridge Elements in the Economics of Emerging Markets (Cambridge University Press). Bruno is a member of the Editorial Board of the SEER Journal for Labour and Social Affairs in Eastern Europe. e-mail: bsergi@unime.it

Martin Serreqi Dr. is Vice Dean for Relations with Entrepreneurship and Public Institutions at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Tiranë and is a full-time lecturer in the Department of Management. His teaching engagements include business management, HRM, compensation management and the management of public organisations. He completed his own master's degree in business administration at the University of Oklahoma in the USA and received his doctorate in economics from the University of Tiranë. e-mail: martin.serreqi@unitir.edu.al.