

Content

Introduction | 7

Thanks | 19

I Art and Technology in Japan – Some Intersections | 21

1. Media Art in Japan – Institutional Structures | 23
2. Device Art – A Very Japanese Media Art | 31
 - Works | 32
 - Players and Networks | 38
3. Japaneseness Sells | 45
 - A Media Art Festival with a Significant ‘S’ | 48
 - Media Art Networks in Japan | 71
 - A Glimpse at Historiography | 82

II From Disenchantment to Re-enchantment | 87

1. Of Silhouettes and Buckyballs | 87
 - The 1990s: Nano in Linz, Micro in Berkeley | 93
 - From Einstein to Artwork: Zero@wavefunction | 100
 - Mise-en-scène of Metamorphosis: Blue Morph | 104
 - Interlude – Colorful images of invisible worlds | 113
 - Touching the Nano World: Nano-Scape | 119
 - Nano Players, Places, Networks | 130
2. Who pays? Big Science and Big Business | 137
 - Art in the Science Museum | 144
3. Beyond popularization: Auratic Science | 156

III Media Art and the Future | 175

Ontologies I: Science in Art – Religious Residues | 179

Writing History – On Progress and Futures | 188

Spaces of Open Possibilities – Visions of Art & Technology | 188

Modernity's Counter-Worlds | 194

Sci-Art as Critical Instance | 199

Ontologies II: 'Experience' | 217

Epilog | 231

Bibliography | 237

Illustration Credits | 259