

Contents

Preface: Choreography as Social Practice

Gerald Siegmund 11

01.00 The Selected Works and Their Artistic Field 15

01.01 The Staging Process – An Object of Research? 15

01.02 The Black Box of the Theatre and the White Cube of the Museum 18

01.03 The Common Working Scheme: The Rosas Dance Company 21

01.04 On Dance History: Freedom? in Choreographic Design 22

01.05 Selecting the Staging Processes 25

01.06 Staging Processes in Dance and Performance: A Historical Outline 31

01.07 Collaborative Formats as Seducers 37

02.00 Towards a Production-Aesthetic Approach 41

02.01 Production-Aesthetic Perspectives in Dance and Theatre Studies 41

02.02 Performances, Staging Processes and Social (Inter)actions 58

02.03 Individuum: The Other Side of the Singular Plural 70

03.00 Research Questions: Three Perspectives 91

03.01 The First Perspective: Theatre Studies and Art History 91

03.02 The Second Perspective: Choreography as 1, 2, 3...Singular Plurals 92

03.03 The Third Perspective: Against the Backdrop of Real Life 96

03.04 Co-Sense – A Basis of Alternative Authorship? 100

04.00 Methodology for a Sociological Perspective 103

04.01 Defining the Core (of the) Team 103

04.02 Divisional Writing and Collective Creativity 104

04.03 Participation: Evolving Along a Greyscale 105

04.04 The Tripartition Method 106

04.05 Degrees in Participation and the Question of “Power” 114

04.06	A Sense of One's Place	117
04.07	Bourdieu's Theory of Capital in Relation to My Study	118
04.08	The Social Space Model	132
04.09	Different Types of Capital...and Their Interpretation	135
04.10	Escaping Determinism	138
05.00	"Reportable Portraits"	141
05.01	Research Scope: La communauté desœuvrée	141
05.02	Counteracting the Traditional Narrative: The CVs of the Participants	144
05.03	Conception Phase: A Starting Point Is Not a Starting Point	153
05.04	Rehearsal Phase	154
05.05	Reformulation and the Notion of "sens de circulation"	180
05.06	Social Space : Frictions and Antagonisms	185
05.07	Evaluating the Working Scheme and Social Space Diagrams	186
05.08	Social Networks: A Further Perspective	193
05.09	Micro-Habitus	196
05.10	Media Phase: Internal Discourse	199
05.11	Media Phase: Reportable Portraits from an Outside Perspective	206
05.12	Between Co-Sense (Mit-Sinn) and the Singular	209
05.13	Authorship and Symbolic Capital	211
06.00	"Collect-if by Collect-if"	215
06.01	Reversing the Narrative	215
06.02	Depicting the Social Space of Collect-if by Collect-if	229
06.03	Conception Phase, Without Concept	235
06.04	Between All Chairs: Audition	237
06.05	Rehearsal Phase: The Starting Point and Its Difficulties	241
06.06	No Goal?	257
06.07	Social Space Diagram and Workers' Self-Organisation	260
06.08	Media Phase: The Necessities of Retrievability	265
06.09	A "Remainder" That Cannot Be Fully Grasped... ..	271
07.00	"Retrospective"	275
07.01	Undoing Authorship(s)	275
07.02	Un/Presentable(s) – Non-Human Participants	283
07.03	Conception Phase: A Singular Being a Plural	300
07.04	Rehearsal Phase: The Sequences Selected	304
07.05	Media Phase: Questions of Authorship(s)	338
08.00	Synopsis	349
08.01	Three Guiding Research Perspectives	349
08.02	A Priori Questions	349
08.03	First Perspective – – – A Historical Outline	352
08.04	Second Perspective: An Ontological Reading	356
08.05	Third Perspective: Sociological Enquiry	358

08.06 Co-Sense: A Basis for a New Concept of Alternative Authorship? 365

08.07 Conclusion and Outlook 369

09.00 Bibliography371

10.00 Table of Illustrations 383

