1. Introduction	11
1.1 Applying polycentricity to the study of coordination in water governance	12
1.2 Empirical research context	14
1.3 Aims and outline of the book	21
1.4 Structure of the book	22
2. Conceptual Framework	25
2.1 Introducing key theoretical concepts	25
2.1.1 Public administration literature and coordination	26
2.1.2 Institutional analysis and coordination	28
2.2 Development of the conceptual framework	32
2.2.1 Structure of polycentric governance	34
2.2.2 Processes of mutual adjustment in polycentric governance	46
2.2.3 Performance of polycentric governance	56
3. Research Design and Methodology	67
3.1 Comparative case study design	67
3.1.1 Selection of case studies and cross-case comparison	69
3.1.2 Selection of Action Situations for within-case analysis	75
3.2 Collection and analysis of data	78
3.2.1 Data collection in case studies	79
3.2.2 Data analysis	81
3.2.3 Assessment of variables	83
4. Empirical Analysis of the Guadalquivir	91
4.1 Independent variables specific to the case study	92
4.1.1 Contextual conditions	92
4.1.2 Characteristics of heterogeneous actors	96

4.2	Analysing and evaluating Action Situations	99
4.2.1	Development of the River Basin Management Plan	100
4.2.2	Dam Release Commission	106
4.2.3	Increasing irrigation efficiency	111
4.2.4	Reduction of water rights	117
4.3	Performance across Action Situations	121
5.	Empirical Analysis of the Jucar	127
5.1	Independent variables specific to the case study	128
5.1.1	Contextual conditions	128
5.1.2	Characteristics of heterogeneous actors	133
5.2	Analysing and evaluating Action Situations	137
5.2.1	Development of the River Basin Management Plan	137
5.2.2	Dam Release Commissions	144
5.2.3	Increasing irrigation efficiency	147
5.2.4	Reduction of water rights	151
5.3	Performance across Action Situations	155
6.	Empirical Analysis of the Mediterranean Basins of Andalusia	161
6.1	Independent variables specific to the case study	162
6.1.1	Contextual conditions	162
6.1.2	Characteristics of heterogeneous actors	166
6.2	Analysing and evaluating Action Situations	169
6.2.1	Development of the River Basin Management Plan	170
6.2.2	Management Committees	176
6.2.3	Increasing irrigation efficiency	178
6.2.4	Demand and supply of desalinated water	181
6.2.5	Reduction of water rights	184
6.3	Performance across Action Situations	188
7.	Comparative Analysis and Conclusion	193
7.1	Characterizing patterns of interaction	194
7.1.1	Comparison of patterns of interaction across cases	196
7.1.2	Patterns of interaction in individual case studies	200
7.2	Linking independent variables and patterns of interaction	201
7.2.1	Variables supporting hierarchy	202
7.2.2	Variables supporting competition	206
7.2.3	Variables supporting cooperation	208
7.2.4	Variables supporting further patterns of interaction	210
7.3	From patterns of interaction to performance	212
7.3.1	Role of patterns of interaction for process performance	213

7.3.2	Role of patterns of interaction for policy output performance	216
7.3.3	Relation between process, output, and environmental outcome performance ...	217
7.4	Summarizing the evidence: theoretical and empirical conclusions	220
7.4.1	Theoretical conclusions	220
7.4.2	Empirical conclusions	226
7.5	Strengths and limitations of this study	228
7.6	Further research	230
