Preface and Acknowledgments

The research project on "the African Union and the Resolution of Constitutional Crises in Africa" took nearly two years (2020–2022) to be completed through the publication of this special volume of the journal 'Law in Africa'. It is the result of efforts deployed by all the members of the African Peacebuilding Network (APN) Collaborative Working Group (CWG) (2020–2022), namely, Balingene Kahombo (Democratic Republic of the Congo -DRC), Jean-Baptiste Serugo (Rwanda), Kwaku Agyeman-Budu (Ghana), Magdalena Sylister (Tanzania), Marystella Auma Simiyu (Kenya and South Africa) and Trésor Muhindo Makunya (DRC and South Africa). Without their contributions, patience and persistence, this volume would have not been published. Their strong commitment to achieve the goals of this research project demonstrated their willingness to become leaders among the new generation of scholars in legal and social sciences in Africa.

My acknowledgements are extended to professors Kenneth Omeje and Amy Niang who mentored the research group for all their advices and methodology insights. They helped members of the group to recalibrate their research approaches and strategies. I cannot overlook the key role played by professors Kwame Frimpong and Pacifique Manirakiza who believed in the timeliness of the project and the relevance of our research questions. Their reference letters to the Social Science Research Council (SSRC) that financially supported the project were instrumental in getting the project selected among the many submissions generally received.

I also thank the Faculty of Legal, Political and Administrative Sciences, Management and International Relations of the University of Goma (DRC) for their managerial role as the host of our research project and all the support provided to the research group throughout the implementation of the project. In this vein, I acknowledge the support provided by Professor Pigeon Kambale Mahuka, Dean of the Faculty, Eric Katusele, Head of the University's Research Unit, and Théodore Katembo Zawadi, Head of Department of Legal Sciences.

I am also very grateful to all those who participated in the different workshops that we organized in order to discuss early draft papers and improve the quality of our findings. I particularly thank Professor Khabele Matlosa and Professor Bwiselelo Abedi for their pertinent comments and inputs.

Furthermore, I thank Franck Shukuru who assisted me at the administrative, managerial and scientific level, as the Lead Investigator of the research group, as well as Moise Abdou Muhima for his technical support in the formatting of our draft manuscript.

Last but not the least, I would like to thank the Social Science Research Council which generously funded our research project in line with its African Peacebuilding Network Programmes. A special tribute is owed to Cyril Obi and members of his team who continuously followed the implementation of this project and provided all their support to the group until its completion. Similarly, my gratitude goes to Gesellschaft für afrikanisches Recht/African Law Association which has accepted to publish this special volume.

https://doi.org/10.5771/2363-6270-2022-1-3 https://www.inlibra.com/de/page/agb - Open Access - (cc) BY-NC

Done in Goma, 30 April 2022
Balingene Kahombo
Principal Investigator

https://doi.org/10.5771/2363-6270-2022-1-3 https://www.inlibra.com/de/page/agb - Open Access - CC BY-NC