This work could not have come into the world without the numerous people who have supported, challenged, and inspired me along the way in a multitude of capacities.

With immense gratitude, I want to thank my first supervisor, Professor Dorothee Richter, and my secondary supervisor, Professor João Florêncio, for their support over the past five years. Both have provided me with space to test and experiment with my thoughts, pointed me in inspiring directions with their feedback, and helped to constructively shape the process of this research undertaking. I am also deeply grateful to my two examiners, Professor Alun Rowlands and Helena Reckitt, for their thorough reading and sincere feedback on my dissertation.

I also want to thank my PhD cohort, who, over so many years, have followed the development of this research-creation and provided feedback, inspirational thoughts, and, most importantly, emotional support: Tanya Abraham, Phila Bergmann, Emily Butler, Antonio Cataldo, Kerri-Anne Chisholm, Katalin Erdödi, Jan Gensch, Emanuele Guidi, Sabine Harbeke and Christopher Kriese, Hadas Kedar, Ronald Kolb, Anja Lückenkemper, Lorenzo Morganti, Bénédicte le Pimpec, Domenico Ermanno Roberti, Maayan Sheleff, Anna Skutley, Tommaso Speretta, Sarah Spies, and Gimo Yi.

For her brilliant proofreading and ever-positive spirit, I am deeply grateful to Jaclyn Arndt. For the funding to undertake this research, I thank the South, West and Wales Doctoral Training Partnership (SWW DTP) of the UK Arts and Humanities Research Council. For the funding to publish this research in Gold Open Access, I thank the Zurich University of the Arts.

A special thank you to the team at M.1 Arthur Boskamp-Stiftung, who not only co-organised the curatorial programme in 2019–20 but also supported it with enthusiasm: Rüdiger Blaschke, Ulrike Boskamp, Claudia Dorf Müller, Jörg Hischke, Betty Kruse, Daniela Mandel, Maria Nydahl, Arbesa Pacolli, Rüdiger Pohlmann, and Bettina Steinleitner.

I would like to thank the following, with all my heart, for their trust, presence, and participation and contributions to the programme at M.1: Shoshana Brandt, Lena Buhrmann, Britta Dichte, Jörn Gasterstedt, Frauke Greuel, Wiebke Habbe, Ingrid Holtorf, Anke Jessen, Marcus Klingler, Ulrich Kypke, Livia de Sousa Lima, Zineb Mahassini, Elisabeth Manthey, Lene Markusen, Astrid Nielsen, Eva Noeske, Nicole Parthey, Charlotte Perka, Helmut Priebe, Annemarie Rohde, Archibald Selinski, Birgit Staack, Bernd Stiebler, Martin Temme, Rieke Tischler, Wiebke Tischler, Yves Tischler, Hilda Westphal, Andreas and Elke Wiedmann, and Anke Willmer.

For the enriching cooperation in the framework of the curatorial programme at M.1, I want to thank: Katharina Bruderhofer, Mouna Doura, Jesko Fezer, “Frank and the Michaels” Band, Antje Hachenberg, Jeanne van Heeswijk, Jan Heinecke, Gilly Karjevsky, Karoline Mätzel, “Kekeli” Band, Uta Luedtke, Jessica Pérez, Michael Pfisterer, Petra Schmalma, Olga von Schubert, ANna Tautfest, Rosario Talevi, Katya Vaseva, William Wheeler, Bettina Winkler-Marxen, and Lily Wittenburg.

Without the artists, co-curators, collaborators, and team members with whom I’ve had the great joy to work with at M.1 (2019–20), StadtPalais Stuttgart (2023), and Kunsthau L6 Freiburg (2023), among other places, my curatorial practice wouldn’t exist. I have learned immensely from: Anna Akaltin, Veronica Andres, Julieta Aranda, Conny Becker, Gabi Blum, Malu Blume, Edna Bonhomme, Marcia Breuer, Johanna Bruckner, Lena Chen, Hannah Cooke, Teresa Dillon, Jesse Dittmar, Ines Doleschal, Jill Emerson, Jesko Fezer, João Florêncio, Frauke Frech, Sylvia Gaßner, Anna Gohmert, Antje Hachenberg, Johanna Hedva, Hettie Judah, Delia Keller, Hannah Kindler, Magdalena Kallenberger, Elke Krasny, Maicyra Leao, Marie Lienhard, Renate Liebel, Myriam Lefkowitz, Karin Lustenberger, Patti Maciesz, Laura Mahnke, Julia Meade, Teresa Monfared, Alice Münch, Milena Naef, Pablo Lapettina, Liz Rech, Helena Reckitt, Patricia Reed, Shira Richter, Johanna-Maria Raimund, Annika Scharm, Anna Schiefer, Anna Schöllß, Lucia Schmuck, Isabell Spengler, Nora Sternfeld, Skadi Sturm, Yayra Sumah, Joan Tronto, Ellen Louise Weise, Julia Wirsching, Didem Yazıcı, and Manuela Zechner, as well as Field Narratives (Andreas Doepke, hn. lyonga, Lene Markusen), Polyphrenic Creatures (Ulrike Bernard, Marei Loellmann), and the members of the New Alphabet School. Thank you!

My deep appreciation goes out to all the wonderful and inspiring art and care networks, who have made this bumpy road towards care so much more joyful and empowering: art+care cosmos, Art Working Parents Alliance, Bühnenmütter, fair share! Sichtbarkeit für Künstlerinnen, K&K – Bündnis Kunst und Kind, kunst+kind Berlin, M.A.R.S. – Maternal Artistic Research Studio, MATERNAL FANTASIES, Mehr Mütter für die Kunst, Mothers*, Warriors, and Poets, Netzwerk Mutterschaft & Wissenschaft, Other Writers, and the Artist and the Others.

I’m filled with heartfelt gratitude for the presence and support of my family and friends, who have crucially sustained and inspired this research-creation in multiple ways over the course of more than five years.

As a single mother, this research project wouldn't have found life without "the village" that has helped me raise my child. In an unexpected way, my grandfather Manfred has taken on the role almost of a co-parent, and without his presence and his care for my son and me, this research project most likely wouldn't exist, or at least not in this way. His care has also shown me that care alliances between generations and genders are possible, which has given me hope that the "Care Revolution" is on the horizon. Opa, thank you.

I extend my immense gratitude to the other members of "the village" for their many-shaped forms of support along the way as well as their sustained belief in this project: Karin Bailer, Patricia Bailer, Aurelia Kirsch, Jorin Kirsch, Mira Kirsch, Monika Bailer, Heiko Bailer, Juli Cho Bailer, Mikis Vitsentzatos, Iris Vitsentzatos, and Iphigenia Manesi – I can't thank you enough.

A warm-hearted thank you also goes to my friends for their valuable intellectual exchange, for their emotional support, and for accompanying the process: Laura Belik, Hanna Bernauer, Mariana Bomtempo, Lorna Bösel, Daria Büchel, Antonia Braus, Caroline Brendel, Chloé Brown, Katharina Bruderhofer, Julia Dreher, Nadine Erhardt, Gisell Federman, Betina Goidanich Johnstone, Jessica Haugg, Oliwia Hälderlein, Alina Harder, Camilla Kussl, Gamar Markarian, Lene Markusen, Tait Mandler, Anne Meyer, Mirjam Müller, Sinéad Petrasek, Lea Rzadtcki, Kristin Schall, Dominika Schnell, Paolo Steiner, Nantume Violet, Sophie Wohlgemut and Silvia Xavier – thank you!

My son, who was two and a half years old when I began my research and who now, as I submit my research project for publication, is eight years old, has shaped this research immensely – his existence has allowed me to see societal mechanisms and contradictions that I was previously oblivious to. His presence in my life can be considered the main driving force behind this research, while it is also the main force that interrupts my workflow, limits my time to read and write, and minimises my ability to focus without distraction. Ultimately, it is the set of tensions that arise from my role as a mother, as a single caregiver for a child, that has allowed this research project to unfold. Oleandro, if you should ever read this: thank you.
