

List of illustrations

- Fig. 1: Khaled Barakeh, MUTE – A Muted Demonstration, mixed media installation at Christiansborg Slotsplads, the square in front of the Danish parliament, Folketinget, June 20, 2022. © the artist. 19
- Fig. 2: Khaled Barakeh, MUTE – A Muted Demonstration, mixed media installation at Christiansborg Slotsplads, the square in front of the Danish parliament, Folketinget, June 20, 2022. © the artist. 20
- Fig. 3: Nermin Duraković, Our Border, video installation, 2022, installed at the exhibition Forbindelser – danske kunstnere fra det tidligere Jugoslavien ('Connections – Danish Artists from Former Yugoslavia') at SMK (the National Gallery of Denmark). Courtesy: the artist. 24
- Fig. 4: On June 8th, 2019, the Copenhagen refugee community centre, Trampoline House, celebrated its 9th birthday with a festive party for all its members and supporters. Long-time member of the House, Eden Girma, suggested having a fashion show where all the House members would walk down a catwalk in Trampoline House's multizone, wearing their favourite outfit. Some people dressed in traditional garments from the country they had fled, like Eden did in the photo. Others created new outfits for the occasion or wore folk costumes from another part of the world that they borrowed from friends in the House. More than 300 adults and children from all over the world took part in the festivities. Photo: Lars Vibild. Courtesy: The Trampoline House Archive. 110
- Fig. 5: CAMP / Center for Art on Migration Politics, entrance to the exhibition space with the main room of Trampoline House visible to the right, 2017. Photo: Mads Holm. Courtesy: The CAMP / Center for Art on Migration Politics Archive. 123
- Fig. 6: Dady de Maximo Mwicira-Mitali's political fashion show If the Sea Could Talk (2014) presented at the opening of CAMP's inaugural exhibition, Camp Life: Artistic Reflections on the Politics of Refugee and Migrant Detention, curated by CAMP's co-founding directors Frederikke 'Fred' Hansen and Tone Olaf Nielsen, 2015. Photo: Alba Oren. Courtesy: The CAMP / Center for Art on Migration Politics Archive. 125

- Fig. 7: Installation view of the group show We Shout and Shout, But No One Listens: Art from Conflict Zones, 2017, curated by CAMP's co-founding directors Frederikke 'Fred' Hansen and Tone Olaf Nielsen, with Gohar Dashti's photo series Today's Life and War, 2008 (wall) and Khaled Barakeh's installation Regarding the Pain of Others, 2013 (floor). Photo: Britta Thomsen. Courtesy: The CAMP / Center for Art on Migration Politics Archive. 126
- Fig. 8: Installation view of the exhibition Decolonizing Appearance, 2018. Guest-curated by Nicholas Mierzoeff for CAMP / Center for Art on Migration Politics. From left to right: Jeannette Ehlers, The Gaze, 2018 (left); Marronage, Marronage #1-3, 2017 (centre); Carl Pope, The Bad Air Smelled of Roses, 2004–ongoing (right); and MTL Collective, Decolonizing Assembly, 2018 (ceiling). Photo: Mads Holm. Courtesy: The CAMP / Center for Art on Migration Politics Archive. 128
- Fig. 9: Installation view of the exhibition Threshold(s), 2019–2020. Guest-curated by Temi Odumosu for CAMP / Center for Art on Migration Politics. From left to right: Michelle Eistrup, BeLONGING Vexillum, 2019 (left); and Luanda Carneiro Jacoel, Kalunga Unspoken, 2019 (floor and ceiling). Photo: Mads Holm. Courtesy: The CAMP / Center for Art on Migration Politics Archive. 130
- Fig. 10: Olu Oguibe, Das Fremdlinge und Flüchtlinge Monument ('Monument for Strangers and Refugees'), 2017. Concrete, 3 × 3 × 16.3 metres. Shown here in its permanent location in Treppenstraße, Kassel. Photograph: Anne Ring Petersen. 142
- Fig. 11: Dady de Maximo Mwicira-Mitali and Joachim Hamou, Silenced bodies – loud images, mixed media installation at Hübner Areal, documenta fifteen, Kassel, 2022. 360 x 360 x 300 cm. Photo: Tone Olaf Nielsen. Courtesy: The Trampoline House Archive. 156
- Fig. 12: Trampoline House, Castle in Kassel, mixed media installation at Hübner Areal, documenta fifteen, Kassel, 2022. Dimensions variable. Photo: Morten Goll. Courtesy: The Trampoline House Archive. 158
- Fig. 13: Trampoline House, The Children's Asylum Seeker Dictionary, 2022. Still image from the video directed by Morten Goll. Shown as an integral part of the installation Castle in Kassel at Hübner Areal, documenta fifteen, Kassel, 2022. Courtesy: Morten Goll and The Trampoline House Archive. 159
- Fig. 14: Collaborative drawings by Kate Adams, Project Art Works and Trampoline House in Hübner Areal, documenta fifteen, Kassel, 2022. Front: Cosmologies of Care: Freedom, 2022, posca pens on paper, 180 x 150 cm. Back: Cosmologies of Care: The Asylum System in Denmark, 2022, posca pens on paper, 290 x 290 cm. The drawings were made during Project Art Works' workshop 'Massaging the Asylum System' in Trampoline House, May 20–22, 2022. Workshop curation: Carlota Mir and Sara Alberani. Guest facilitators: Kate Adams and Tim Corrigan (Project Art Works). Trampoline House consultancy: Nabila Saidi and Tone Olaf Nielsen. Photo: Tone Olaf Nielsen. Courtesy: The Trampoline House Archive. 165

- Fig. 15: Installation view of the 100% FREMMED? ('100% FOREIGN?') exhibition in the city of Viborg, Denmark. The general exhibition setup with the local portraits was on the ground level, with the 100 portraits from Copenhagen installed on cubes on the steps above them. Curated by Maja Nydal Eriksen in collaboration with Metropolis/Copenhagen International Theatre. The photographic portraits and the texts are mounted on cubes measuring 200 x 200 cm. © Maja Nydal Eriksen. 184
- Fig. 16: Maja Nydal Eriksen, portrait of Julien Kalimira Mzee Murhul, from 100% FREMMED? ('100% FOREIGN?'), 2017. Photograph, 110 x 100 cm. © Maja Nydal Eriksen. 189
- Fig. 17: Maja Nydal Eriksen, portrait of Nawras Al-Hashimi, from 100% FREMMED? ('100% FREMMED?'), 2017. Photograph, 110 x 100 cm. © Maja Nydal Eriksen. 190
- Fig. 18: Maja Nydal Eriksen, portrait of Fatima Yassin, from 100% FREMMED? ('100% FOREIGN?'), 2018. Photograph, 110 x 100 cm. © Maja Nydal Eriksen. 202
- Fig. 19: Maja Nydal Eriksen, portrait of Alia Ismail El-Aynein, from 100% FREMMED? ('100% FOREIGN?'), 2019. Photograph, 110 x 100 cm. © Maja Nydal Eriksen. 204
- Fig. 20: Alen Aligrudić, Untitled / Driver's Grave, from the series Greetings from Yugoslavia, (2006–2021) 2022. Postcard, 10.5 x 21 cm. Courtesy: the artist. 215
- Fig. 21: Alen Aligrudić, Untitled / One Step over the Border, from the series Greetings from Yugoslavia, (2006–2021) 2022. Postcard, 10.5 x 21 cm. Courtesy: the artist. 216
- Fig. 22: Ismar Ćirkinagić, from the series Herbarium, comprising about 250 herbariums, 2004–2022. Dried plants, variable sizes. Photo: Ziyah Gafic. Courtesy: the artist. ... 219
- Fig. 23: Ismar Ćirkinagić, The House in the Forest by the Sea, 2006. Installation. Clothes sewn together, debris and other materials. Variable sizes (minimum height 625 cm). Shown at the exhibition Forbindelser – danske kunstnere fra det tidligere Jugoslavien ('Connections – Danish Artists from Former Yugoslavia') at SMK (the National Gallery of Denmark). Photo: Thomas Andersen. Courtesy: the artist. 221
- Fig. 24: Nermin Duraković, Asylum Residency, 2005. Drawing, 30 x 40 cm print on transparent paper. Courtesy: the artist. 226
- Fig. 25: Nermin Duraković, (Re)arranging, 2005/2015. Year of production: 2009. Exhibited: 2009/2015/2016/2022. Installation. Metal, plastic, wooden furniture, mattresses and restriction tape, size approximately 16 m². Courtesy: the artist. 227
- Fig. 26: Vladimir Tomić, Flotel Europa, 2015. Single-channel video, 70 min. Still image from the video. Courtesy: the artist. 229
- Fig. 27: Vladimir Tomić, Flotel Europa, 2015. Single-channel video, 70 min. Still image from the video. Courtesy: the artist. 231
- Fig. 28: Kent Klich, page spread from the photo book Black Friday, 2015, 16 x 24 cm. Courtesy: the artist. 244
- Fig. 29: Kent Klich, from Killing Time, 2013. Still image from a smartphone video. 19 x 14.5 cm. Photo: Qareeb Omar Abed. Courtesy: the artist. 245
- Fig. 30: Kent Klich, from Gaza Photo Album, 2009. Photograph by the artist of Mohammed Shuhada Ali Ahmed's destroyed home at Tuffah, Northern Gaza Strip. 25 x 17 cm. Courtesy: the artist. 248

- Fig. 31: Larissa Sansour and Søren Lind, Olive Tree (Nation Estate), 2012. C-print. Courtesy: the artists. 253
- Fig. 32: Larissa Sansour and Søren Lind, In the Future They Ate from the Finest Porcelain, 2016. Single-channel video, 29 min. Installation view: Larissa Sansour, Amos Rex, 2024. Photo: Tuomas Uusheimo. Courtesy: Amos Rex and the artists. 255
- Fig. 33: Larissa Sansour and Søren Lind, Archaeology in Absentia, 2016. Fifteen bronze sculptures, 20 cm each. Installation view: Larissa Sansour, Amos Rex, 2024. Photo: Tuomas Uusheimo. Courtesy: Amos Rex and the artists. 256
- Fig. 34: Larissa Sansour and Søren Lind, In Vitro, 2019. Two-channel black and white HD film installation, 28 min. Installation view: Larissa Sansour, Amos Rex, 2024. Photo: Tuomas Uusheimo. Courtesy: Amos Rex and the artists. 257
- Fig. 35: Kent Klich, from the photo book GZA On Land and Air, 2024. 38 x 25 cm. Courtesy: the artist. GAZA International Airport, GZA, 2016–2017. 258
- Fig. 36: Tina Enghoff and Kent Klich, Untitled, from the series The Memory of Salt, 2025. C-print, 90 x 90 cm. The series is part of the project and exhibition In the Past We Made History, 2025. Fotografisk Center, Copenhagen. Courtesy: the artists. 263
- Fig. 37: Tina Enghoff and Kent Klich, installation of textile banners (Klötzel) with photographs, 90 x 600 cm, part of the project and exhibition In the Past We Made History, 2025. Fotografisk Center, Copenhagen. Photo: Enghoff/Klich/Kiake. Courtesy: the artists. 265
- Fig. 38: Tina Enghoff and Kent Klich, installation of textile banners (Klötzel) with photographs (detail), 90 x 600 cm, part of the project and exhibition In the Past We Made History, 2025. Fotografisk Center, Copenhagen. Photo: Enghoff/Klich/Kiake. Courtesy: the artists. 266