Preface

This book resulted as a joint project from our teaching experience in the field of the law of International Organisations in Jena, Münster and Munich. The German version was first published in 2009, its second edition being currently in print. Our core purpose is to analyse the interactions between the development of the general law of International Organisations on the one hand and the growing institutionalisation of major substantive parts of public international law on the other. The title “Institutionalised International Law” reflects this approach. We believe that the law of International Organisations is best understood as “law in action” in specific subject areas, such as international peace and security, protection of human rights, environment as well as trade and development. The book should primarily be useful for students of international law and international relations, as well as practitioners and interested lawyers.

The publication of this book was made possible by many helping hands. Most of all, the linguistic support by Christopher P. Hunt (Jena) and Stefan Schäferling (Munich) was indispensable. We are very grateful towards them, as well as towards Stefanie Hempel, Sophia Henrich, Tom Kuhfuß, Melanie Kühn, Susanne Prater, Fabian Preger, Chun-Kyung Paulus Suh and Markus Vordermayer for their tireless research and technical assistance. Of course, all remaining mistakes are our own, and critical resonance is most welcome (cwalter@jura.uni-muenchen.de or matthias.ruffert@uni-jena.de).
