“Give honour to whom honour is due”

With great respect and profound recognition, I would want to thank you, Prof. Dr. Guido Pollak for taking the pains to accompany me in the course of this work. Your fatherly direction and competent supervision of this work made great impression on me. I remain grateful.

My unalloyed gratitude goes to you, Prof. Dr. Dr. Peter Fonk for motivating me to aspire to greater heights in my academic pursuit; and also for accepting to take an active and positive part in evaluating this work; and for assisting me towards its publication. Remain blessed.

I am also grateful to you, Dr. Clement Obielu for finding time to proof-read this work and for tending your useful observations.

I sincerely appreciate you, Doris Siller for your creative partnership and competence. Thank you also for designing this book-cover

Let me here acknowledge you all, my friends, colleagues, relations and well-wishers, for your different roles in my life. Worthy of mention are E. Sigl (for your assistance towards this publication); E. Emereuwa and F. Nnabuike (for your moral support). God bless you all.

To my Mum – Lady Victoria Ndukaihe and my siblings – Chudi, Okee, Ada, Chii, Ugo, Uba, Izu, and all your wives/husbands and children, I say thank you for the outstanding family love, solidarity and support.

I conclude with the loving memory of my Dad – Sir Felix E. Ndukaihe ksj (*1928 – +2004) – whose academic enthusiasm, inspiration and human values pushed and still live on in us, his children. I (we) love you, Dad. Rest in Peace.
