

Contents

---

|                       |    |
|-----------------------|----|
| Acknowledgments ..... | 13 |
|-----------------------|----|

|                    |    |
|--------------------|----|
| Introduction ..... | 15 |
|--------------------|----|

Section I

Theoretical and Conceptual Frames

On Affective Humor and Touching Spaces

|                                                       |    |
|-------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Beginnings with Laughter or Humor's Zany Comedy ..... | 29 |
|-------------------------------------------------------|----|

|                         |    |
|-------------------------|----|
| A-View-Over-Humor ..... | 35 |
|-------------------------|----|

|                                         |    |
|-----------------------------------------|----|
| Theories of Humor – an Overview I ..... | 40 |
|-----------------------------------------|----|

|                                          |    |
|------------------------------------------|----|
| Theories of Humor – an Overview II ..... | 42 |
|------------------------------------------|----|

|                                         |    |
|-----------------------------------------|----|
| Points of Relevance and Departure ..... | 44 |
|-----------------------------------------|----|

|                                                |    |
|------------------------------------------------|----|
| Modernist Approaches – Freud and Bergson ..... | 44 |
|------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                    |    |
|----------------------------------------------------|----|
| Ethical and Performative Dimensions of Humor ..... | 48 |
|----------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                                   |    |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Periperformatives, Reparative Readings – and Besides ..... | 52 |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                |    |
|------------------------------------------------|----|
| The Bakhtinian Approach and the Dialogic ..... | 57 |
|------------------------------------------------|----|

|                            |    |
|----------------------------|----|
| Humor and – ›Affect‹ ..... | 66 |
|----------------------------|----|

|                                                   |    |
|---------------------------------------------------|----|
| The ›Affective Turn‹, Literature, and Humor ..... | 67 |
|---------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                      |    |
|--------------------------------------|----|
| Laugh's Humor – Laugh's ›Love‹ ..... | 74 |
|--------------------------------------|----|

|                                      |    |
|--------------------------------------|----|
| Humor's Pain – Humor's Healing ..... | 78 |
|--------------------------------------|----|

|                                   |    |
|-----------------------------------|----|
| Humor 'n Affective Critique ..... | 86 |
|-----------------------------------|----|

|                                                                     |    |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Liminality I – Fanon's ›Laughter‹ and the Ogling of the Other ..... | 88 |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                       |    |
|-------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Liminality II – Nietzsche – at Crossing Borders ..... | 91 |
|-------------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                       |    |
|-------------------------------------------------------|----|
| Liminality III – Plessner – at Border Crossings ..... | 96 |
|-------------------------------------------------------|----|

|                                                       |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| ›Irony‹'s Fall and the Question of Subjectivity ..... | 100 |
|-------------------------------------------------------|-----|

|                                                                |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Humor as the Rhetoric of Deconstruction and Subjectivity ..... | 112 |
|----------------------------------------------------------------|-----|

|                              |     |
|------------------------------|-----|
| A Poetology of Poetics ..... | 118 |
|------------------------------|-----|

|                                                                                                         |     |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Affectivity, Non-Knowledge &amp; Power-lessness .....                                            | 121 |
| Non-Knowledge and Power-lessness in the Economy of Textures .....                                       | 121 |
| Humor as the Nexus of Non-Knowledge ( NichtWissen ) and Power-lessness ( OhnMacht ) ..... | 140 |
| Affective Humor – A Configurative Synopsis .....                                                 | 156 |
| The Fissured Meaning(fulness) of Touch .....                                                 | 161 |
| Derrida's Touch .....                                                                                   | 166 |
| Psyche's Touch 'n the Self .....                                                                        | 183 |
| The Untouching, UnHaptic Touch 'n the Leib .....                                          | 190 |
| The M/Other's Artificial Organity – Lips – Mouth – Tongue .....                                         | 192 |
| Humorous Frames – The Debt of Touch out of Tact .....                                            | 198 |
| Affectivity without Touch .....                                                                  | 210 |
| Touching on Humor .....                                                                                 | 212 |
| Humor in Touch .....                                                                                    | 215 |
| Humor – In-Between Touching Spaces and Affective Attouchments .....                              | 225 |

Section II – Readings

Reading White Teeth

|                                                                                    |     |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| White Teeth – A Contextualization .....                              | 231 |
| White Teeth – Paratextual UnFoldings .....                           | 246 |
| White Teeth – On the Level of the Story – Archie and Samad .....            | 267 |
| What Matters? – White Teeth On the Level of the Narrative Discourse .....   | 305 |
| Endgames and Beginnings .....                                                      | 312 |
| Structures of Knowing and (the Matryoshka Dolls of) Othering .....                 | 321 |
| Unfolding Spaces 'n the Economy of ›Non-Knowledge‹ and Power-lessness ..... | 335 |
| Entangled Positions and The Still Language of Racism .....                         | 343 |
| The Laugh of the Medusa .....                                                      | 352 |

Reading Je suis un écrivain japonais

|                                                                                     |     |
|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Je suis un écrivain japonais – A Contextualization .....              | 365 |
| To Be or Not to Be a Japanese Writer – On the Level of the Story .....              | 376 |
| To Be or Not to Be a Japanese Writer – Otherwise .....                              | 394 |
| Je suis un écrivain japonais – On the Level of the Narrative Discourse ..... | 409 |
| Point of Entry – In the Metro with Basho .....                                      | 409 |
| and Off. Stereotypes – Abbrüche and Deconstructions .....                    | 427 |
| ›Japan‹ – L'Asie .....                                                       | 431 |
| The Japanese Writer and ›the Camera‹ (obscure) .....                                | 437 |
| Asian-African-American Touches .....                                                | 451 |
| Greek Culture with Capital Letters .....                                            | 458 |

Conclusions ..... 469

Bibliography ..... 481

