Since I started working on The Human and the Meat, many people have played a key role in its realization in different ways. First of all, my deepest gratitude goes to Francesco Aloe without whose inestimable help, knowledge, passion, careful feedback, stimuli and real friendship not a word of this book could have been written. Thank you for starting this dialogue with me some years ago, for opening, by “telling me a little”, and then (re)building with me, many of the worlds of thought which I am happy to inhabit now.

The Human and the Meat originates from a PhD thesis defended at the University of Bergamo in 2021. While the thesis provided the initial foundation, the book represents a substantial revision: the introduction, conclusion, and third chapter have been entirely rewritten, and the text has undergone extensive copy editing. I am grateful to Enrico Giannetto for believing in this project from the very beginning and for the kindness, availability, and trust with which he supervised it. The transformation of the thesis into a book would not have been possible without the invaluable and constant encouragement of Roberto Nigro, to whom I extend my heartfelt thanks, nor without the significant editorial work of Nicole Coffineau – thank you! Many thanks also to Rosa Pierno for the generous permission to use her (un)quietly powerful artwork for the cover, to the supportive staff of transcript for their assistance during the publication process, and to the NiedersachsensOPEN publication fund for the financial support that enabled me to publish this book under an open access license.

I want to thank all the wonderful comrades I have been lucky enough to meet over the years in the fight for intersectional animal liberation – people who have shaped my thoughts and feelings along the way: Federica Timeto, Massimo Filippi, the former and current members of the editorial board of Liberazioni, Friederike Zenker (sharing that Barcelonian “dream long gone” was a true joy), Marco Reggio, Laura Fernández, Núria Almiron. Warm thanks to my new “fringe animal people”, Valerie Tollhopf and Alli S. M. Abad – remember to enjoy the flight!

Finally, I want to thank those people who have been my essential net of emotional and moral support throughout these years and beyond: my best friend (and more) Puru & my brother Giacomo for always being here, my beloved niece Maria Sofia, my mother Barbara, and all my ever-green friends – my “Penny Black” Martina, my Angel(o) and Fanny, Benni, Tae, Bea, Sara, Erica, and Silene. Endless thanks to Benedetta Milani for her ever growing, thought-provoking, and intimate friendship (and, of course, for Juran!); and infinite thanks to Sara Simone Spinelli – both of you, “grazie per i molti modi con cui mi avete aiutata”. I am also grateful to have brilliant new friends and scholars in my expanding net of inspiration and support: Daniel Nemenyi, Maria Teresa Costa, Inga Luchs, Lukas Geiszler, Raffaele Maria Campanile, Lorenzo Mizzau, Cara-Julie Kather. Thanks-in-progress to my father Guido.

Original gratitude goes to a friend I parted ways with, who first told me that “eating meat is wrong because animals suffer”, thanks for planting the first seed of this book.
