

Christopher Joseph Hansen
World Construction via Networking

Lette

Christopher Joseph Hansen is a scholar specializing in literary studies, media studies, transmediality, and narratology. He holds a master's degree in transnational literary studies from Universität Bremen and completed his Ph.D. thesis at Universität Siegen. His research interests include the interplay of media, narrative structures, popular culture, and creative writing.

Christopher Joseph Hansen

World Construction via Networking

The Storytelling Mechanics of the Marvel
Cinematic Universe

[transcript]

Dissertation an der Philosophischen Fakultät der Universität Siegen.

Bibliographic information published by the Deutsche Nationalbibliothek

The Deutsche Nationalbibliothek lists this publication in the Deutsche Nationalbibliografie; detailed bibliographic data are available in the Internet at <https://dnb.dnb.de>

© 2024 transcript Verlag, Bielefeld

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reprinted or reproduced or utilized in any form or by any electronic, mechanical, or other means, now known or hereafter invented, including photocopying and recording, or in any information storage or retrieval system, without permission in writing from the publisher.

Cover layout: Kordula Röckenhaus, Bielefeld

Cover illustration: Kohji Asakawa / Pixabay (modified)

Printed by: Majuskel Medienproduktion GmbH, Wetzlar

<https://doi.org/10.14391/9783839470985>

Print-ISBN: 978-3-8376-7098-1

PDF-ISBN: 978-3-8394-7098-5

ISSN of series: 2703-013X

eISSN of series: 2703-0148

Printed on permanent acid-free text paper.

Acknowledgments

I want to express my deepest gratitude to Prof. Dr. Anja Müller and Prof. Dr. Daniel Stein for their unwavering guidance, invaluable insights, and relentless commitment to excellence. Their mentorship has made this Ph.D. project possible and has been instrumental in shaping its course.

I am profoundly thankful for their expertise and support.

I would also like to thank the entire English Department of the University of Siegen. They provided an inspiring academic environment and access to resources, discussions, and ideas, greatly enriching my research journey. Within this context, special thanks go to my colleagues Kieron Brown, Katrin Becker, and Alessandra Boller, who, outside of stimulating discussions and shared insights, provided a sounding board for dealing with the unexpected and usually unmentioned pitfalls of completing a Ph.D. project. I am honored to have had the opportunity to meet and work with such dedicated and talented individuals.

Finally and most importantly, I would like to thank my wife, Anna-Maria von Kentzinsky, who endured months of my uncertainty and more rewatches of the MCU than a sane person should be legally submitted to, and my mother, Sue Hansen, who never questioned the validity of my path and always encouraged me to do something out of the ordinary. I am eternally grateful for their unwavering love, encouragement, and understanding throughout this challenging endeavor. Their steadfast support sustained me during the long hours of research and writing, and I am deeply fortunate to have them in my life.

