

Editorial

Our current economic systems are not geared towards the satisfaction of needs and the care for our environment and our fellow human beings, but solely towards growth and profit. The consequences of this are a constant reproduction of social inequalities along the axes of class, race and gender as well as the isolation of individuals and the destruction of nature.

The New Economy book series provides explanations for these multiple crises of our time and opens up possibilities for a sustainable, solidarity-based economy. It provides an editorial space for heterodox empirical research, paving the way for pluralistic, interdisciplinary and self-reflexive economics.

Maïke Gossen (Dr.) is a post-doc researcher at Technical University Berlin, Germany. Her research centers around sustainable consumption, sufficiency, sufficiency-promoting marketing and digitalisation.

Laura Niessen is a doctoral researcher at the Maastricht Sustainability Institute at Maastricht University, the Netherlands. She works on sufficiency-based business models and on how companies can promote sufficiency practices amongst their customers.
