Preface and Acknowledgements | 9

Introduction | 17

PART ONE
FLOWING STREAMS AND UNFOLDING PROJECTIONS

On the Intrinsic Processuality of Design Process | 29

Processuality and Logic of Events in Design Process | 29
- Defining the Concept of Design Process of the Present Study | 35
- The Theoretical Framework: Design Process and the Semiotics of Charles S. Peirce | 37
- From the Generation of Ideas to the Form-Giving Process: The Pragmatic Character of Design Process | 41
- The Continuity of Design Process: Ideas, Concepts, Conceptualizations | 50
- An Example of Design Process in the Context of Graphic Arts | 56
- The Logic of Abduction and Idea-Generation | 61
- Concepts, Conceptualizations, and Form-Giving Process | 63
- Purpose, Conceptualizations, and Realization | 67

Research Methods Articulated in this Book | 68
- An Overview of the Expected Contributions from the Manuscripts | 70

Research Problems and the main Hypothesis of the Present Inquiry | 73

Rigid Stage Process and the "Problem" of Problem Solving | 73
- A Glimpse into the Concept of "Problem Solving" and "Heuristics" | 74
- A Detailed View of the Paradigm of Rigid Stage Models of Creative and Projective Thought | 82
- Rigid Stages and Psychological Processes: Widespread Views of Creative Thinking and Problem Solving | 89
- Criticizing the Rigid Stage Model: Problem Solving as General Operations Research | 93

Traditional Views: Peirce, Semiotics, and Projective Activities | 102

The Main Hypothesis of Design Process in Light of Peirce's Semiotics: From Rigid Stage Thinking to Processual Flowing Streams | 108

PART TWO
A CRITICAL ANALYSIS OF A PROBLEMATIC TRADITION: THE PARADIGMATIC RIGIDITY ENCAPSULATED IN THE CURRENT DISCOURSES OF DESIGN PROCESS

Psychological Foundations: Creativity, Invention, Association, and Problem Solving | 117

Towards a Critical Analysis of the Traditional Discourses of Design Process | 117
A View of the Principle of Discovery and Invention at Work within Design Process | 118
Early Beginnings: Association Psychology and the Mechanics of Thought | 120
The Development of the Associationist Psychology | 126
Early Experimental Psychology: Searching for the Mental Act | 132
Schematic Knowledge of Problem Solving and Stream of Thought | 138
The External Side of Problem Solving: Stage Oriented Creativity | 144
Stages of Creativity and the Positivistic Belief: The Fundament of the Problem Solving Tradition | 151
Creative Thinking and Problem Solving as Stratified Stages | 154
Critique on the Purviews of Gestalt Psychology and Behaviorism | 157

The Traditional Bases of Design Process: Invention, Discovery, and Creativity According to Modern Psychological Investigations | 159

The Cognitive Revolution and its Relevance for Design Process | 159
Psychological Background of Information Processing Theory | 162
Processing Creative Thinking: Simulating Human Problem Solving Behavior | 170
Paradigm of Information Processing Theory and the Operational Stages of Problem Solving Behavior | 177
Reassessing Design Process after Information Processing | 181
Inveterate Rigidity | 187

PART THREE
A DETAILED ACCOUNT OF SEMIOTICS: FROM THE PASTICHE OF SIGN THEORIES TO A CLARIFIED PROCESSUALITY OF DESIGN PROCESS IN LIGHT CHARLES S. PEIRCE'S SEMIOTICS

A Problematic Tradition: Sign Theories in the Context of Design Process | 193

A Plethora of Sign Systems | 193
An Overview of the Most Influential Sign Theories | 195
Ferdinand de Saussure and a Plan for Semiology | 195
Louis Hjelmslev and Glossematics: Expanding Structural Linguistics to a General Structural Semiotics | 199
Discourse and Narrative: Algirdas Julien Greimas and Discourse Semiotics | 200
Roland Barthes and a Broader Semiotic Application | 203
Logical Positivism, Empiricism, and Pragmatism: Charles Morris' Behavioral Semiotics | 206
Roman Jakobson: From Structural Linguistics to General Semiotics | 211
A Pastiche of Sign Theories: A Review of Criticisms | 216
Dismissing some Equivocal Notions of the Concept of Semiotics | 227
Avoiding Errors | 230

The Semiotics of Charles S. Peirce in the Context of a Philosophical Architecture | 233

A Philosophical Semiotics | 233
A Philosophical System | 234
The Manuscripts chosen for the Present Inquiry | 236
Architecture of Thought and Knowledge: Peirce's Philosophical System in Architectural Tradition | 241
The Idea of Philosophical Architecture and the "Undoubtful" Base of Knowledge | 241
Peirce's Antifoundationalism | 246
A Modern Version of Objective Idealism: Peirce's Logical Idealism | 248
Peirce's Architectonic System of Philosophy | 251
Peirce's Ladder of Sciences | 252
Phaneroscopy and the Inventory of Categories | 257
Firstness, Secondness, and Thirdness: Categories of Phenomenological Experience | 258

A Detailed Review of Peirce's Semiotics: Semiosis, Interpretation, and Pragmatic Operation | 267

The Triadic Process: Sign and Semiosis | 267
Semiotics in the Normative Sciences | 273
The Internal Structure of Semiotics | 279
The First Branch of Semiotics: Speculative Grammar | 279
The Second Branch of Semiotics: Logical Critics | 283
The Third Branch of Semiotics: Methodeutic | 286
The Maxim of Pragmatism | 288

Design Process in Light of Semiotics: Symbiotic Operations Inherent to the Semiosis of Design Process | 295

A Return to Phaneroscopy: Transitional Point between Phaneron and Semeion | 295
A Daring Attitude of Mind: Relation between Esthetic Principles and Abductive Process | 307
What is then the Logic of Design Process in Light of the Semiotics of Peirce? | 314
Reassessing the Thesis: Design Process in Light of the Semiotics of Peirce | 316
Design Process and the Development of the Sendai Mediatheque | 323

List of Figures | 343

Bibliographical References | 345

A. References of the Work of Charles S. Peirce | 345
