

CONTENTS

| | |
|--|-----|
| Acknowledgements | 9 |
| Preface: Inhabiting the Event | 11 |
| Abstract | 27 |
| 1. Lived Temporalities in Guatemala | 29 |
| 1.1 Lived Temporalities in the Mayan Cosmovision of Time | 29 |
| 1.2 The Concept of ‘Lived Time’ in Deleuze’s Reading of Bergson | 34 |
| 1.2.1 Duration: Lived Time as Virtual Multiplicity | 36 |
| 1.2.2 The Condition of Duration: Ontology | 40 |
| 1.2.3 The Movement within Duration: Life | 43 |
| 1.2.4 Knowledge through Duration: Intuition | 46 |
| 1.2.5 Living Life Impelled by Duration: Vitalism | 48 |
| 1.3 The Location of the Research: Guatemala | 50 |
| 1.4 Methodology: Studying Atmospheres of Duration and their Production | 54 |
| 1.4.1 Affirming an Atmosphere: The Molar and the Molecular | 55 |
| 1.4.2 Mapping an Atmosphere: The Partial Objects | 56 |
| 1.4.3 Analysing an Atmosphere: The Machine | 59 |
| 1.5 Locating the Research Project within Existing Research | 60 |
| 2. ‘Poco a Poco’: Passive Time and the Traditional Home | 65 |
| 2.1 Introduction: Passive Time and the Living Present | 65 |
| 2.1.1 Passive Time | 66 |
| 2.1.2 The Living Present | 67 |
| 2.1.3 Tradition | 69 |
| 2.2 Empirical Explorations | 72 |
| 2.2.1 Temporalities of Fire | 73 |
| 2.2.2 Temporalities of Water | 78 |
| 2.2.3 Temporalities of Sweetcorn | 85 |
| 2.2.4 Temporalities of Saints | 92 |
| 2.3 Conclusion and Line of Flight | 107 |

| | |
|---|-----|
| 3. ‘Todo Sirve’: The Passive Self and the Guatemalan Market | 113 |
| 3.1 Introduction: Immanence and Territorialisation | 113 |
| 3.2 Empirical Explorations | 120 |
| 3.2.1 The Market as a Plane of Immanence | 122 |
| 3.2.2 The Passive Self: Territorialisation through Resonance | 130 |
| 3.2.3 Territorialisation and Consistency | 143 |
| 3.3 Conclusion and Line of Flight | 149 |
| | |
| 4. ‘Mañana’: Becoming-Active and the Unpleasant | 153 |
| 4.1 Introduction: The passive Encounter with the Unpleasant and the Affirmation of Life | 153 |
| 4.1.1 The Affect: Unpleasure as reactive Force | 155 |
| 4.1.2 Differentiation: Unpleasure as active Force | 159 |
| 4.1.3 Binding: The active Forgetting of Unpleasure | 163 |
| 4.2 Empirical Explorations | 164 |
| 4.2.1 The Affect: Unpleasure as reactive Force | 165 |
| 4.2.2 Differentiation: Unpleasure as active Force | 176 |
| 4.2.3 Binding: The active Forgetting of Unpleasure | 186 |
| 4.3 Conclusion and Line of Flight | 195 |
| | |
| 5. ‘Gracias a Dios’: The Event and Guatemalan Buses | 197 |
| 5.1 Introduction: Making Sense of the Other and the double Reading of Time | 197 |
| 5.1.1 The Event and the Notion of the ‘Other’ | 199 |
| 5.1.2 Chronos: The Time of the Actual Other | 202 |
| 5.1.3 Aion: The Time of the Event | 204 |
| 5.1.4 The Event as Virtual Balance between Self and Other | 207 |
| 5.2 Empirical Explorations | 211 |
| 5.3 Conclusion and Line of Flight | 242 |

| | |
|--|-----|
| 6. Research Findings: Lived Temporalities and the Recognition of the Actual Other | 245 |
| 6.1 Lived Temporalities: Time as Virtual Multiplicity | 246 |
| 6.2 The Recognition of the Actual Other | 248 |
| 6.2.1 The Desire for Omnipotence and the Desire for Mutual Recognition | 248 |
| 6.2.2 The Desire for Mutual Recognition and the Desire for a Holding Space | 252 |
| 6.2.3 The Desire for a Holding Space and Becoming-Active | 254 |
| 6.2.4 Becoming-Active and the Circumvention of Becoming-Reactive | 256 |
| 6.2.5 The Circumvention of Becoming-Reactive and Responsibility | 258 |
| 6.3 Conclusion | 260 |
| Bibliography | 261 |
| Appendix | 271 |
| I. Map of Guatemala | 272 |
| II. Questionnaire | 273 |
| III. Photo Examples | 276 |

