This book is based on the doctoral dissertation that I completed at the Carl von Ossietzsky University of Oldenburg, Germany in 2024. The Ph.D. thesis was written in the field of Art and Media Research, within the Faculty of Language and Cultural Studies.

I would like to express my heartfelt thanks to the following individuals, without whose help the preparation of the present study would not have been possible.

My deepest thanks go first to Prof. Dr. Martin Butler, my supervisor, for guiding me through this work. The many conversations that we had were very intellectually enriching, and made me, hopefully, into a better academic writer and more systematic thinker.

I thank Prof. Dr. Petra Löffler for her many valuable contributions and suggestions.

I thank transcript Verlag for publishing this book.

I thank my life partner Claudia Baniahmad for her faithful support and encouragement, and for her persuading me to undertake this work.

A special thanks to my close friend Prof. Marc Silver for our many intellectual discussions.

A special thanks to my close friend Steve Valk for many valuable discussions.

I thank the following friends for accompanying me on my journey: Bernie Tuchman, Judith Ward, Bette Adriaanse, Mark Ellman, Prof. Michal Klosinski, Roberto Muffoletto, Jerry Rubin, Prof. Caroline Heinrich, Anja Wiesinger, Alan Cholodenko, Florian Arnold, Arno Baumgärtel, Nima Gazestani, Prof. Marcel Marburger, Prof. Nolan Bazinet, Prof. Robin Parmar, William Miller, Alexis Clancy, Denise Werth, Regan O'Brien, and Gerd Paul.

I thank my brother Fred R. Shapiro, my sister-in-law Jane Garry, and my nephews James and Andy Shapiro for their love and support.

I thank my original mentor at Cornell University Prof. Dominick LaCapra. Those familiar with LaCapra's amazing work will recognize some derivation of his methodology here.

I dedicate this book to the memory of my parents Murray and Florence Shapiro and my aunt Marjorie Weiss.
