

Eckart Voigts, Robin Markus Auer, Dietmar Elflein, Sebastian Kunas, Jan Röhnert,
Christoph Seelinger (eds.)
Artificial Intelligence – Intelligent Art?

Eckart Voigts is a professor of English literature at Technische Universität Braunschweig. He has written, edited and co-edited numerous books and articles.

Robin Markus Auer is working towards a PhD as part of an interdisciplinary research project on automated creativity in literature and music at Technische Universität Braunschweig. His work focuses on the interplay between human and machine creativity in coupled embodied creative systems.

Dietmar Elflein (apl. Prof. Dr.) teaches popular music at Technische Universität Braunschweig. He is a member of the advisory board of the German speaking branch of the International Association for the Study of Popular Music.

Sebastian Kunas is a musician, sound artist, producer and educator with background in sub and DIY culture as well as in cultural and sound studies. He teaches electronic sound and music practice and supervises the electronic studio and the recording studio at the Faculty of Cultural Studies and Aesthetic Communication at Universität Hildesheim. He is a member of the collective ARK (Arkestrated Rhythm-machine Complexities), a changing association of artists, scholars and electronic MusickingThings.

Jan Röhnert is a professor for Modern literature in the technical-scientific world in the Department of German Letters in at Technische Universität Braunschweig. His research interests range from avantgarde poetics and cinema, autobiography and war, landscape and geopoetics, nature and wilderness writing to feminism and contemporary literature.

Christoph Seelinger is a research assistant in modern German literary studies at the Institute of German Studies at TU Braunschweig, where he completed his doctorate in 2021. Previously, he completed the interdisciplinary Master's programme "Culture of the Techno-Scientific World" at TU Braunschweig. His research focuses on the interfaces between film and literature, border crossings in (audiovisual) media, the connection between literature/film and the avant-garde, and the so-called "trivial culture".

Eckart Voigts, Robin Markus Auer, Dietmar Elflein, Sebastian Kunas,
Jan Röhnert, Christoph Seelinger (eds.)

Artificial Intelligence – Intelligent Art?

Human-Machine Interaction and Creative Practice

[transcript]

The project and this publication was funded by the Ministry of Science and Culture of Lower Saxony (NMWK) in the program line Niedersächsisches Vorab.

Bibliographic information published by the Deutsche Nationalbibliothek

The Deutsche Nationalbibliothek lists this publication in the Deutsche Nationalbibliografie; detailed bibliographic data are available in the Internet at <https://dnb.dnb.de/>

This work is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution-ShareAlike 4.0 (BY-SA) which means that the text may be remixed, build upon and be distributed, provided credit is given to the author and that copies or adaptations of the work are released under the same or similar license.

<https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-sa/4.0/>

Creative Commons license terms for re-use do not apply to any content (such as graphs, figures, photos, excerpts, etc.) not original to the Open Access publication and further permission may be required from the rights holder. The obligation to research and clear permission lies solely with the party re-using the material.

First published in 2024 by transcript Verlag, Bielefeld

© Eckart Voigts, Robin Markus Auer, Dietmar Elflein, Sebastian Kunas, Jan Röhnert, Christoph Seelinger (eds.)

Cover layout: Maria Arndt, Bielefeld, based on a design by Mirette Bakir

Printed by: Majuskel Medienproduktion GmbH, Wetzlar

<https://doi.org/10.14381/9783839469224>

Print-ISBN: 978-3-8376-6922-0

PDF-ISBN: 978-3-8394-6922-4

ISSN of series: 2702-8852

eISSN of series: 2702-8860

Printed on permanent acid-free text paper.

This collection is dedicated to all of our contributors and to everyone who helped bring the project to fruition.

