

Contents

Foreword	11
Acknowledgements	13
1 Introduction	15
1.1 Populism, radicalization, and the integration of newcomers and natives	17
1.2 Aim and structure of the book	21

Part I Excursions on Democracy, Pluralism, Deliberation, and Radicalization

2 Deliberation: what, why and how	27
2.1 Formulating decisions, advices or calls	28
2.2 Strengthening of political community and cohesion	29
2.3 Strengthening of political competencies	30
2.4 Furthering the awareness of a problem	32
2.5 Translation of vague uneasiness into problems and issues	34
2.6 Informing politics about the public's world of experience	34
2.7 In closing: deliberation and pluralism	36
3 Deliberation, democracy and pluralism	39
3.1 Democracy and ethical pluralism	39
3.2 Pluralism versus relativism	40
3.3 Tolerance versus indifference	41
3.4 Rationally discussing values	42
3.5 Deliberating with monist thinkers	43
3.6 Discussing essentially contested concepts: freedom	46
3.7 Conclusion	49

4	How to set up a deliberation on fundamental values?	51
4.1	Points of departure	51
4.2	Deliberative approach	53
4.3	Excursion: Deliberation on democracy	58
4.4	What effects to expect?	61
5	Assisting citizens to find out what they want	65
5.1	Individuals, groups and cultures can be dead wrong	65
5.2	The role of politicians	66
5.3	Is a good social scientist also a good politician?	67
5.4	Bad social science causing bad politics	68
5.5	In the dark about voters	69
5.6	Taking people seriously	70
5.7	Countering radicalization: what research teaches us	74

Part II Deliberative Projects and Practices

6	Deliberation against populism: reconnecting radicalizing citizens	83
6.1	Implementation Overview	84
6.2	Surfing the populist internet	87
6.3	Addressing suspicious and skeptical citizens	89
6.4	Deliberation on grievances	92
6.5	Concluding remarks	99
7	The uses of social media for civic and political participation	101
7.1	Recruiting participants through social media	102
7.2	Group recruitment through local confidants	104
7.3	Political communication through social media	105
7.4	The use of social media to realize personal goals	107
7.5	Political education via the Internet	108
7.6	Some concluding observations	109
8	Deliberating discrimination and racism with pupils in a volatile school	111
8.1	Political education in Germany	112
8.2	What kind of school?	114
8.3	The participants	116
8.4	How and what did we deliberate?	117
8.5	Dark Tourism	135
8.6	Feedback	136
8.7	Conclusions	137

9	Our Europe for All – Civic engagement among young European citizens in Berlin and Brandenburg	141
9.1	The project	142
9.2	Survey Results	146
9.3	Conclusion	152
10	Deliberating gender equality	155
10.1	A proliferation of Rights	155
10.2	Employment rates of both sexes	157
10.3	Stress society	158
10.4	Women in managerial positions	160
10.5	Male versus female professions	161
10.6	Gender change in occupations	162
10.7	Why are women underrepresented?	164
10.8	How would the world look like without discrimination?	167
10.9	Some empirical findings in our own workshops	171
10.10	Afterword	171
11	Deliberating homosexuality	173
11.1	Extreme emotions	174
11.2	Countering homophobic reasonings	178
11.3	Some research data	182
11.4	Concluding remarks	184
12	Deliberation with newcomers and the connection problem	187
12.1	Minor Afghan men	188
12.2	Syrian migrants	190
12.3	Some people from the African continent	193
12.4	Reaching out to a Mosque congregation in Potsdam	196
12.5	A Workshop with Chechen	200
13	Recruiting German democratic civilians	207
13.1	Recruiting through companies	208
13.2	Recruitment through unions	209
13.3	Recruitment through neighborhood organizations	210
13.4	Recruitment through women's organizations	211
13.5	The use of (social) media	212
13.6	A lack of interest or capacity?	212
13.7	Afterword	215

14 Researching the feedback of our workshops 217

14.1 Feedback forms 219

14.2 Results 221

14.3 Conclusion 224

15 Concluding remarks: deliberating usable knowledge 225

15.1 Some findings and lessons 226

15.2 The development of usable knowledge 231

15.3 Recruiting democrats in an increasingly indifferent society 234

Literature 237

Index 249