

Acknowledgements

So many collaborators have helped to make this book possible in the last four years.

We want to start by thanking the FWF (the Austrian Science Fund) for funding our arts-based project, PEEK AR580; and Taguhi Torosyan for being a wonderful friend, brilliant colleague and patient co-worker in our initial research team (2019–21). Traces of her feminist commitment and conceptual contributions are woven into this book, shaping its theoretical foundations and informing several of our practical outcomes.

Many thanks to the institutions who supported our activities, fieldwork and knowledge production, including the Academy of Fine Arts Vienna and Paul Reiter and Michaela Glanz, whose generous support, prompt assistance and constant coordination helped to shape our project. Heartfelt gratitude to Professor Elke Krasny, our most important partner, role model and patient mentor over the years: thank you for inspiring us with your research on art, feminism and care. And we thank the University of Applied Arts Vienna, particularly the Digital Arts Department and Ruth Schnell for her feminist support and mentorship.

It would have been impossible to realise this work without Mz* Baltazar's Lab – the space where our techno-feminist activism was born and nurtured over the past 13 years, and where our feminist collective continues to thrive within a broader constellation of care and resistance in action within the arts, media and technology. Special thanks to the colleagues that followed our process closely, offering encouraging critique and thoughtful advice along the way: Olivia Jaques, Lale Rodgarkia-Dara, Anna Watzinger, Nicole Sabella and Taguhi Torosyan.

We would also like to thank the institutions, collectives and projects that invited us to exhibit our work in a situated site of reflection and critical framework: the Kunstraum pro arte and Schmiede in Hallein (AT), the Hangar in Barcelona (ES), the Chaos Communication Congress in Hamburg (DE), the International Biennial of Ceramic Art of Aveiro (PT), the Ars Electronica in Linz (AT), MAK (Museum für angewandte Kunst) in Vienna (AT), PIF-camp in Soca (SL), Electric Wonderland Camp in Croacia, Sandkasten Syndikat in Vienna (AT), Art Meets Radical Openness in Linz (AT), Aarde (NL) and Medienwerkstatt in Vienna (AT).

We are deeply grateful to the contribution and knowledge transfer of Heinz Lackinger on ceramics as an ancient craft. Endless gratitude goes to our colleagues and peers Karin Reisinger and Selena Savic, who accompanied our project from the very beginning and contributed insightful feedback. Heartfelt thanks to our dear project contributors, colleagues, friends and allies, Daniel Schatzmayr, Erica Farina, Klemens Kohlweis, Janine Schranz, Céline Struger, Kristin Weissenberger, Ana Rita Antonio, Deborah Hustic, Sabina Simonic, Reni Hofmüller, Jill Scott and Cornelia Sollfrank, who always encouraged us to be more radical in our thinking and art. Big thanks to musician and friend José Lopes (L.Sound), who helped us with the sound recording and editing, and the musical component of our project. And thanks to Mario Pillai for the soundtrack of our Salon of Open Secrets game.

Our sincere appreciation to the proof-editing work of Amanda George, who has been on our side for more than 10 years. And we thank Eva Balayan for the amazing design, layout and cover of this book.

Thanks to the FWF for funding the citizen science extension of our project through the TCS 133 grant (Top Citizen Science) that facilitated several workshops with young people in schools and afternoon programmes. Thanks to the workshop contributors who helped us to realise workshops on site, at the Salon of Open Secrets: Theresa Schütz, Mir* Raggam-Alji and Petra Weixelbraun. And to the teachers that kindly offered their classroom space for our experiments with students: Anna Hofmann-Pillai, Anna Jost, Eva Kartusch, Mario Hofmann-Pillai and Monika Kosa.

We want to thank all of the international experts who so generously shared their ideas, visions and tutorials: Saad Chinoy, Irene Agrivina, Rajina Shresta, Mariá Antonia González Valerio, Seyram Avle, Milton Raggi, Gameli Adzaho and Hannah Perner-Wilson. Special thanks to Julian Chollet for sharing his knowledge on mud batteries. And a heartfelt thankyou to the peer artists we interviewed, who kept the light burning during the dark days of the pandemic by generously sharing their insights, ideas, and secrets: Lilo Viehweg, Karin Reisinger, Cornelia Sollfrank, Paula Pin, Janne Kummer, Gaia Leandra and Ce Quimera, Giulia Tomasello, and Arianna Forte.

We deeply appreciate the large team of agents, artists and activists who were committed to giving exposure to the concept of feminist hardware art, like Michelle Christensen, Florian Conradi, Ingrid Cogne and the team at Constant. Sincere thanks to all contributors and coordinators of the Feminist Hardware Festival that we organised in Vienna in 2022, especially Ioana Vreme Moser, Mirjana Mitrovic, Marcela Suárez, Giulia Tomasello, Arianna Forte, wetlab Barcelona, Mary Maggic and Irene Agrivina.

Many thanks to transcript, our publisher, for believing in our project and helping us to disseminate it worldwide, particularly Jakob Horstmann and Annika Linnemann.

Last, but not least, we are forever grateful to our close friends, families and partners who supported our journey with love, care and intense reproductive labour.
