

Contents

Gabriele Brandstetter/Gabriele Klein

Dance [and] Theory. Introduction | 11

DANCING AND THEORIZING AND THEORIZING DANCING

Susan Leigh Foster | 19

ARTISTIC RESEARCH

Introduction by Kerstin Evert/Sibylle Peters

Artistic Research: Between Experiment and Presentation | 35

Bojana Cvejić

A Few Remarks about Research in Dance and Performance
or – The Production of Problems | 45

Victoria Pérez Royo

Knowledge and Collective Praxis | 51

Jan Ritsema

It does not matter or The Artist Out (of the Picture) | 63

Response by Annemarie Matzke

Artistic Research between Dance and Theory –
A Response in Six Questions | 69

References | 75

AESTHETICS

Introduction by Gerald Siegmund

Aesthetic Experience | 81

Juliane Rebentisch

The Question of the Aesthetic | 89

Krassimira Kruschkova

The Resistance to Dance Theory.
Being-With, the Aesthetic Event | 97

Stefan Hölscher

Beautiful Affects in Choreography | 103

Sabine Huschka

Intertwinings: The Dis/Positions of Dance Aesthetics | 107

Katja Schneider

Unexpected Horizons of Meaning | 115

Response by Katherine Mezur

Parallel Universes and Aesthetic Dis/Balance:
Theory Interrupted, Dance Distracted | 119

References | 129

DANCE THEORY AS A PRACTICE OF CRITIQUE

Gabriele Klein | 137

POLITICS

Introduction by André Lepecki

Dance and Politics | 153

Franco Barrionuevo Anzaldi

Pitfalls of ‘the Political.’
Politization as an Alternative Tool for Dance Analysis? | 159

Bojana Kunst

The Politics of Time | 167

Boyan Manchev

Contemporary Dance and the Critical Ontology of Actuality | 173

Avanthi Meduri

Geo-Politics, Dissensus, and Dance Citizenship:
The Case of South Asian Dance in Britain | 177

Martin Nachbar

Resilient Bodies, Stirred. Political Anecdotes from the Field of Contemporary Choreography | 183

Response by Gunter Gebauer

Remarks Concerning the Ontology of Dance | 187

References | 191

DIS/BALANCES. DANCE AND THEORY

Gabriele Brandstetter | 197

ARCHIVESIntroduction by Beatrice von Bismarck

Steps and Gaps: Curatorial Perspectives on Dance
and Archives | 213

Franz Anton Cramer

Body, Archive | 219

Florian Malzacher

The Constructive Compromise | 223

Ruth Noack

Dance/Archive/Exhibition? Moving between Worlds | 227

Marion von Osten

The Archive in Motion | 231

Frank-Manuel Peter

“Mal d’Archive” – in a Different Sense than
Jacques Derrida’s | 235

Response by Christina Thurner

Leaving and Pursuing Traces
‘Archive’ and ‘Archiving’ in a Dance Context | 241

References | 247

NEXT GENERATION

Introduction by Susanne Foellmer

Thoughts on the Now in the Future | 253

Yvonne Hardt

A Relational Perspective on Dance and Theory –
Implications for the Teaching of Dance Studies | 265

Sandra Noeth

dé-position. Or How to Move in(to) the Future? | 271

Isabelle Schad

Embryology as Choreography | 277

Laurent Goldring

Hypothesis Number Nine: The Image Is an Organ | 283

Peter Stamer

What's 'next'? | 287

Isa Wortelkamp

In the Making. On the Generation of Movement
between Dance and Theory | 291

Response by Kai van Eikels

An Institution Is only as Good as the People who Work there Can be. No? | 297

References | 309

Notes on Contributors | 313

INTRODUCTION

