

Contents

Preface

Jan-Peter Voß, Nora Rigamonti, Marcela Suárez, Jacob Watson 7

Sensing Collectives, an Introduction

Jan-Peter Voß, Nora Rigamonti, Marcela Suárez, Jacob Watson 11

Aesthetic governance – and reflexive engagements with it

Re-designing the Sensory Order

Forms, Practices, and Perception

Sophia Prinz 51

Escape, Erase, Entangle

Three Aesthetic Regimes Re-composing the Californian Ideology

Jonathan Luke Austin, Anna Leander 73

Sensory Governance

Managing the Public Sense of Light and Water

Nona Schulte-Römer 95

Packaging Pleasures

Design, Play, and Consumer Change

Susan C. Stewart 123

Hegemonic Sensory Practices of the Smart City

And a Collective Remaking of Data-based Urban Commons

Miguel Paredes Maldonado 145

We Thought It Was Fog, We Thought It Was Just Some Weather Sensing, Datafication, and Governance of Urban Air Pollution Hanna Husberg, Agata Marzecová	165
 Aesthetic innovation – and collective re-ordering
How to Better Sense What is Happening? A Political Lesson from Taste and Tasting Antoine Hennion	185
Provoking Taste Experimenting with New Ways of Sensing Jan-Peter Voß, Michael Guggenheim, Nora Rigamonti, Aline Haulsen, Max Söding	199
The Beauty of Feeling On the Affective Politics of Sensing Collectives Friederike Landau-Donnelly	219
“Wir sind das Volk!” How the PEGIDA-demonstrations aesthetically practice an exclusive collective identity Sebastian Sommer	239
Digital Violence as Affective Disciplining after Feminist Protests The Case of #NotLikeThatLadies Marcela Suárez and Mirjana Mitrović	255
Performing Disruptions A Bodily Encounter with Misogyny in Lifestyle Television Rose Beermann	277
Sensing Collectives as Sensing Selves Two Artistic Interventions and Two Theories of the Self Jacob Watson, Vanessa Farfán, Markus Binner	291
Authors in Order of Chapters	309