

Ulfried Reichardt, Regina Schober (eds.)
Laboring Bodies and the Quantified Self

American Culture Studies | Volume 27

Ulfried Reichardt (Prof. Dr.), born in 1956, teaches American literature and culture at the University of Mannheim. He was principal investigator of the research project “Probing the Limits of the Quantified Self” as well as founder and speaker of the graduate school “Formations of the Global”. His research also focuses on American philosophy and music as well as the uses of time in literature.

Regina Schober (Prof. Dr.), born in 1980, teaches American studies at the Heinrich-Heine-University Duesseldorf. She received her dissertation from the University of Hannover in 2009 and her habilitation from the University of Mannheim in 2019. Her research focuses on literary conceptions of networks, data fiction, and the intersections of failure and knowledge. With Ulfried Reichardt, she was principal investigator of the research project “Probing the Limits of the Quantified Self”.

Laboring Bodies and the Quantified Self

[transcript]

We would like to thank the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG) for funding our research project "Probing the Limits of the Quantified Self: Human Agency and Knowledge in Literature and Culture of the Information Age" and also for funding the publication of this volume. Likewise, we want to thank the University of Mannheim for generously providing the necessary infrastructure as well as Katrin Ramseier and Su Montoya for their invaluable support in proofreading the manuscript of this volume for publication. A great thanks also to Juliane Straetz who suggested the theme of the volume.
