Classification Literature 18(1991)No.3 (3-001 - 3-366)

As there was no space left in this issue for the outline to Classification Literature we ask our readers to kindly have a look at the outline given in the last issue (IC 91-3). Also for reasons of space it was not possible to include the many abstracts available to most of the references. The reader is invited to ask for those in which he is interested. We will try to supply them according to our possibilities. The notation at the right refers to our classification system based on the outline. It was published in IC 1985-3, p.147-151.

ters: 1) Terminology, 2) Historical evolution, 3) Language concerns, 4) Terminological languages, 5) The structure of a thesaurus, 6) Construction of a thesaurus, 7) Presentation forms of a thesaurus, 8) Multilingual thesauri, 9) On publication & other complementary questions, 10) On the use of a thesaurus.
