

Acknowledgments

Finally, I would like to thank all those who have accompanied me through my (long) studies and who have made this book possible:

To my family and friends, who supported me throughout my studies and gave me many great opportunities.

To Professor Florian Weber-Stein, who supervised my Bachelor's thesis and encouraged me to pursue a Master's in International Relations.

To my fellow students of the IBID Master Program and the Juso HSG at the University of Trier, thanks to whom I had a great first year despite Covid.

To Felix, who helped me to reflect on the content of my work.

To Beate, who helped me with the linguistic design of this book.

To the IBID Master's program, which provided me with the opportunities and tools to complete this book.

To Professor Manuel Fröhlich, who was ready and willing to supervise this master's thesis.

To Christina Popa and the whole team at Tectum Verlag, who gave me the great opportunity to publish my thesis.

Finally, to Lisa, who supported me and put up with me throughout the whole process.

Thank you very much!
