

Table of Contents

- 08 What Are and To What End Do We Study
Spaces of Appearance?
Martin Renz/Julius Schwarzwälder
- 28 “Which, Remarkably Enough, Does Not Get Anyone Anywhere”
Of Cameramen, Irrelevant Structures of Relevance, and the Slackened Space of Appearance
Sophie Loidolt
- 52 We Need to Talk
A Museum’s Response to Political Polarization in Post-Unification Germany
Martha Crowe
- 76 Revolutions of the Senses
Martin Renz/Julius Schwarzwälder
- 110 Paradise Lost
Art, Caviar and Irreconcilable Differences
Raha Golestani
- 134 When Constantinople Was a Center of Central Europe
(We Were Best Friends)
Merve Yıldırım
- 160 Proceeding Through Steps
The Political Aesthetics of Legal Subjectivity in the Amtsgericht Mitte, Berlin
Dorothea Douglas
- 184 A Moment in Time?
Arendt, Moten, and the Futures of Black Action in Little Rock
Noah Grossmann
- 204 Being and Appearance, Process and Medium
Reinhold Görling

- 230 Active Objects
Helena W. Crusius
- 246 The ‘How’ of Knowledge
With a Postscript/Preview on Planetary Perception
Susan Buck-Morss
- 266 List of Illustrations and Image Credits
- 277 Acknowledgments
- 279 Biographical Information

This volume is a collaborative effort.

All contributors took part in an intensive year of workshops and discussions. They read and criticized each other's texts, which led to substantial revisions of almost all contributions in this volume. The concept 'space of appearance' serves as a shared analytical tool, enabling the authors to address their distinct object of concern in a connected and analytically productive way. We encourage readers to consider the texts alongside one another—not despite, but because of these differences.

