The Sorting of Humanity

Klaus Behnam Shad (Dr. phil.) is a scholar in social and cultural anthropology who teaches and conducts research at Université du Luxembourg. He studied at Universität zu Köln and earned his PhD in 2020 from the Department of Political and Social Sciences at Freie Universität Berlin, with a dissertation examining the role of emotions in asylum processes. His research focuses on A.I. & Society, political and psychological anthropology, social complexity, and intersectionality. Combining an interdisciplinary and empirically grounded approach, his work bridges the humanities, social sciences, and digital methodologies, offering nuanced insights into the interplay of technology, human behavior, and society. His aim is to foster innovative perspectives for research and practical applications, particularly in the context of emerging sociotechnical systems.
