~ LL.M. in Legal Theory 2024/25

This is how we were greeted in the beginning of the year, how every administrative hurdle and delay was approached, how we tried to figure out what Aristotle's Allegory of the Cave would look like, where our next spontaneous adventure would take us, on what it all depends, and everything you can't do according to Kant – the number of bad jokes and puns that sustained this LL.M. is quite remarkable. Thank you to all the fantastic teachers who shared their knowledge and passion with us, who challenged us in our thinking, and who inspired us to formulate our own ideas. A lot of the learning and processing, however, also happened outside the classroom. Thank you so much to this wonderful community of legal theory students I found. Thank you for all the lunches, trips, celebrations, dinners, and walks.

Prof. Lorenz Schulz, thank you for your support and for providing such an excellent framework within which to enjoy this ride. Prof. Klaus Günther, thank you for your great teaching and for your supervision of this master thesis. I did not think that I would dare to touch discourse theory for this project, but I am glad I did as I learned so much in the process of writing this thesis that carried me from my Master right into my PhD. Andrés, thank you for keeping the ride going and somewhat on track with your never-ending support, humour and care for the programme and us students. Thank you for being a mentor, tutor and friend. To my peers, especially Neil, Drin, Meldoy, Yayao and Aziz, thank you for sharing this ride and making it so incredibly enjoyable.
